ATTEMPT MADE TO END STRIFE

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 14.—(UP)—Major George L. Berry, the president's industrial co-ordinator, inaugurated today an 11th hour attempt to settle American Federation of Labor strife by arbitration and stem the mounting demand for expulsion of the rebel unions led by John L. Lewis.

Leaders "Crack Down"

At the same time, craft union leaders most bitterly opposed to the Lewis insurrection were understood to be "cracking down" on the state and city labor council delegates in a determined drive to assure sufficient votes to revoke the charters of the 10 unions which defied the federation by joining Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization. Many local groups have defended the rebels.

Berry Hopeful

Berry, acting as a delegate and emphasizing that President Roosevelt is entirely aloof from the battle over the C. I. O., is hopeful that some success could be achieved in efforts toward a settlement that would maintain the federation's 56 years of solidarity.

"I suggest appointment of a committee of equal numbers from each side in the controversy with an arbitrator who would be empowered to vote on a settlement," he said. "The majority decision of this group would be accepted in advance by agreement of both sides. I believe the dispute could be settled in five minutes under proper conditions."

The Howard U stadium was crowded with spectators and the Virginia Union team had taken the field to warm up when the strike was called.

Question Author, Wife In Russell Death

MEDICAL AID REQUIRED BY MRS. MORRIS

Quarrels Denied as L. A. Officials Start New Quiz on Mystery

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—(UP)—Gouverneur Morris, the novelist, questioned about the supposed suicide of Reid Russell, young houseguest whose body was found in a lawn swing on Morris' beach estate, denied to district attorney's investigators today that any shot had been fired inside his home at the time of Russell's death.

Actress Questioned

Morris, his attractive wife, and Lila Lee, former film beauty, were questioned at the hall of justice after Russell's mother, Mrs. Victoria Russell, demanded a new investigation of his death.

Mrs. Morris, brunette and tiny, collapsed during the questioning and required medical aid, investigators said, before she could continue.

Admits Note Destroyed

She admitted destroying a note Russell sent her prior to his death, according to investigators. As Mrs. Morris recalled the note, she said, it was merely another of the handsome young accountant's threats to commit suicide. She found it on her dresser and burned it, she said.

Chief Investigator Clyde Plummer, emphasizing he was still following no theory other than suicide in the case, said he called in the witnesses for questioning because of indications that the fatal shot might not have been fired in the lawn swing, where Russell's body was found.

Plummer asked Morris regarding the possibility of a shot inside the house because of neighbors' reports that they heard what sounded like the report of a gun from the palatial Morris residence at about 9 p. m. on September 24, Russell's body, shot through the head, was found next morning in the swing.

Denies Shot Fired

Capt. Plummer asked Morris point-blank:

"Mr. Morris, was there a shot inside your house?"

"No," the novelist replied emphatically, "there was not."

The author said there had been no quarrel involving himself and his wife and Russell and said "everything was pleasant and we were all good friends."

Note Quoted

His wife, questioned about Russell's note, said she found it, unsigned and undressed in a jewel box on her dresser and recognized it as having been written by their houseguest. Quoting from memory, Mrs. Morris said the note read:

"I told you I was going to do it, and you see."

At this point she collapsed. Assisted to a restroom by women members of the district attorney's staff, she was revived with smelling salts. Returning, she continued:

"I showed the note to Miss Lee and told her about it and suggested I'd best destroy it."

"I found it several days after the funeral and I told Miss Lee I didn't want to drag it all out again by reporting the note, and Miss Lee agreed with me."

"I wish I had kept it as it would have cleared up all of this."

Lila Lee, willowy former film star, told investigators Mrs. Morris showed her the note, and she watched the author's wife burn it in an ash tray. She said she did not read the note, however.

Miss Lee confirmed the Morrises' story that Russell threatened to commit suicide.

REBELS RAIN DEATH ON CITY

MADRID, Nov. 14.—(UP)—Nationalist artillery and airplanes rained death on Madrid today in a terrifying bombardment.

After a shower of shells and bombs, designed to force capitulation of the city into which the insurgents have been unable to fight their way, officials said today, a majority of whom were women and children.

Many Wounded

One hundred and fifty were wounded, many gravely. Officials expected the list of dead to mount with reports of additional victims and deaths of those fatally injured.

The heaviest losses were in the Atocha square, in the working class district of southeast Madrid, inflicted by an aerial bombardment.

The chief objective of the bombers was the ministry of public works, on whose roof several anti-aircraft guns were mounted.

Water Mains Broken

Windows within a radius of five blocks from the ministry were shattered. A nine-story apartment building opposite the ministry was wrecked and two great stone pillars of the ministry fell. Telephone, telegraph, electric and street car power wires were torn. Water mains were broken. It was away the blood of the victims.

Storm guards roped off the area and ordered tenants of damaged apartment houses to evacuate.

As the bombs and shells blasted the helpless city, Loyalist troops were pouring out to the battle lines to attack the Nationalists in their own territory on their new offensive.

INQUEST SLATED IN WOMAN'S DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—(UP)—Despite discovery of a blood-stained tree limb, Capt. William J. Bright announced his belief today that Mrs. Margaret Pearl Walker, 53, died in an accidental fall at her isolated cabin in Arroyo Seco canyon. He said he would ask a coroner's inquest next week.

The club-sized tree limb, with hair and blood clinging to it, was found late yesterday near the cabin. Bright said, however, he did not believe it was used to kill her.

Bright said he believed the woman fell off a 10-foot retaining wall and struck her head on rocks.

HOWELL SUCCEUMS IN ATLANTA HOME

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 14.—(UP)—Clark Howell Jr., Democratic national committeeman from Georgia and publisher of the Atlanta Constitution, died here today. Howell, who was 73, died at his home. He had been ill for several weeks with a stomach disorder.

Howell had been a close personal and political friend of President Roosevelt and had refused several ambassadorships, preferring to remain in active control of his newspaper. However, he did accede to the president's request to head the Federal Aviation commission.

PEACE PLAN OF OFFICIAL IS REJECTED

Rossi to Leave By Plane Sunday to Confer With President Roosevelt

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—(UP)—A new walkout of 500 shipyard workers today complicated the strike situation at Los Angeles harbor, where a tieup of lumber imports threatens a southwest building boom. The newest strike occurred at noon at the harbor's two yards, Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock company, and Bethlehem Shipbuilding company.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—(UP)—Mayor Angelo J. Rossi, announced today he would leave by airplane for Washington tomorrow to confer with high administration officials regarding a means of settling the maritime strike.

He said he would discuss the walkout, involving almost 10,000 men, with Secretary of Labor Perkins and possibly with President Roosevelt.

Plan Rewritten

Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, said conciliators' latest peace plan involving federal control of hiring halls had been refused by shipowners and workers. He said the plan would be re-written and re-submitted.

Meanwhile, the strike loosened its paralyzing grip on San Francisco's wholesale food supplies today as striking grocery warehousemen returned to work. They ended their two-week strike by accepting an offer of 70 cents an hour, averting retail staple shortages.

LONDON EXCITED BY F. D. R. WARNING

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(UP)—Government authorities expressed belief today that treasury officials would conduct discussions with the United States government regarding President Roosevelt's warning that foreign capital was being invested in a gigantic scale in American securities.

The conversations, it was indicated, would concern principally the possible consequences of the president's declaration.

The declaration brought the disclosure that many London stock brokers in recent weeks have been doing more American than British business.

The president's statement concerning foreign investments caused excitement in the market today.

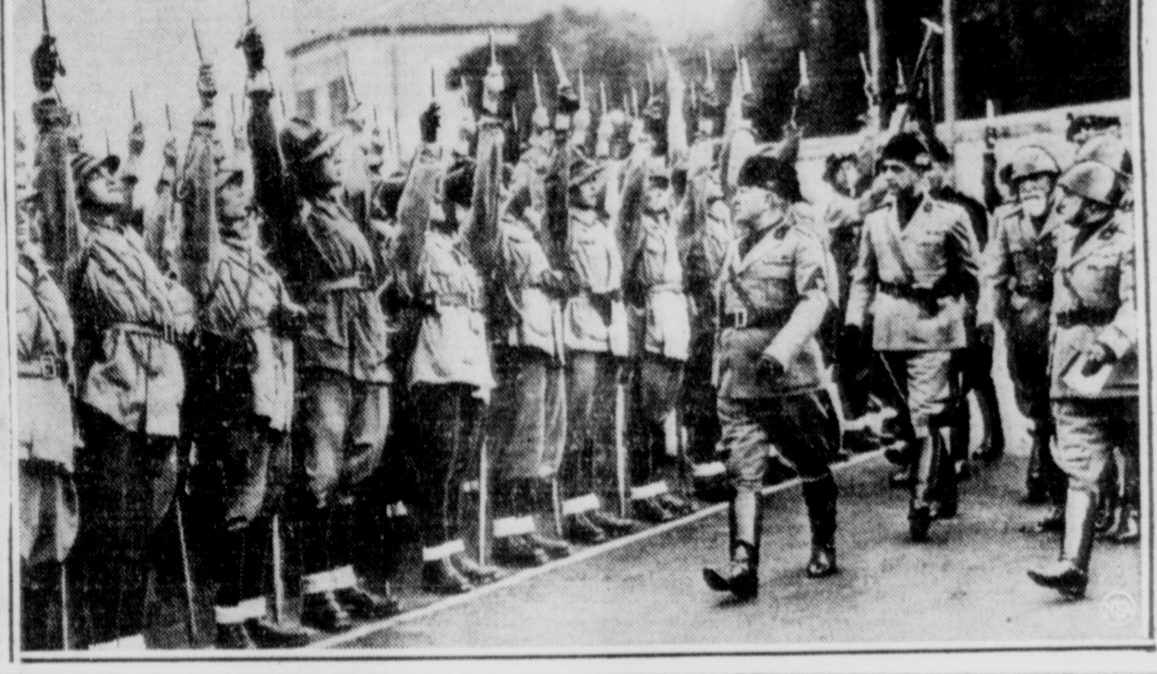

BYSTANDER KILLED

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—(UP)—Norman Drollich, 18, an innocent bystander, was killed early today when he was caught in the cross-fire of a pistol battle between a Bronx detective and four hold-up suspects, who escaped.

Whether Drollich was killed by the policeman's bullets or by fire from one of the suspected hold-up men could not be determined pending an investigation of the slugs by ballistics experts.

POINT WAY TO PEACE—WITH COLD STEEL

Consigning the League of Nations to the scrapheap and belittling idealistic plans for peace, Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy announces his intention to pursue the rearmament policy that has made his army one of the most formidable in the world. The skyward held daggers of the troops whom Mussolini reviews above symbolize his faith in cold steel as Europe's surest peace maker.

2 NEAR DEATH IN EXPLOSION

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 14.—(UP)—Mystery today shrouded an explosion which sank the 65-foot floating experimental laboratory, the Scripps, at its berth near the San Diego Yacht club last night and left two men near death.

In Critical Condition

Capt. Murdock Ross, 60, and Harry Ball, 50, the only men aboard the vessel when it exploded, were in a critical condition at the Mercy hospital, officials there said. Both men suffered third degree burns and shock.

Fire officials planned an official investigation of the blast which enveloped the Scripps in flames and shook other vessels nearby. Forty-five minutes after the explosion the boat sank, still burning despite the efforts of a fire boat and fire trucks.

Dr. E. C. Moberg, official of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, which owned the boat, said to his knowledge there was no gasoline or other explosive aboard the boat.

Blast Jarred Boat

Capt. Henry Kruse of the pleasure yacht Novia Del Mar, which was anchored about 100 yards from the Scripps, said the blast jarred his boat. Immediately after the first explosion the Scripps was enveloped in flames, he said, and smaller explosions occurred intermittently for several minutes.

HOEPEL AND SON MUST STAY IN JAIL

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 14.—(UP)—Legal technicalities today balked efforts of both government and defense attorneys to obtain release from jail of Rep. John H. Hoeppel of California, and his son, Charles, convicted on charges of conspiring to sell a West Point appointment for $1000.

The Hoeppels' attorneys demand outright freedom. Officials of the District of Columbia want the men released from the local jail so they can be taken to Washington to start serving a jail sentence on the conspiracy conviction.

Federal Judge Robert N. Pollock ruled against the defense attorneys on bond, and remanded them to Henrico county jail. He set next Thursday as date for a hearing on the motion of their bondsmen for their release in his custody.

ANNEA VICTIM IDENTIFIED

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 14.—(UP)—Mrs. Harry L. Hall, Columbus, today identified a picture of a youth who reported he was suffering from loss of memory, at Long Beach, Calif., as that of her son, William A. Hall, 22, who left here a month ago to work in Detroit. He has a wife, Ruth, and an eight-month-old child here.

Baby Derby Mothers To Go On Stage

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 14.—(UP)—The champion child bearers of their decade, leaders in the Charles Vance Millar maternity marathon which ended October 31, will go on the vaudeville stage in the United States, if arrangements in the making today are completed successfully.

Appearing with the mothers on the tour, if plans by Will Foy, New York theatrical agent, are fulfilled, will be the husbands, slightly indifferently but unwilling to turn down the $150 a week.

But one of the leading mothers, Mrs. Martin Kenny, balked at the offer. Mrs. Kenny contends she is the rightful and sole winner of the baby bearing race started by the eccentric Millar, who in his will left approximately $500,000 as a prize for the most prolific Toronto mother in the decade after his death.

CLAN AROUSED BY BABY MOSES CASE

PEARL RIVER, La., Nov. 14.—(UP)—A sage member of the Crawford family opined today that "hell was a-gathering" in the Louisiana pine scrub forests. The elders of the family, "shamed" by the baby Moses case, had determined to visit a righteous retribution on the erring wife of one of their members.

Already they had deprived Edie Crawford of her husband, Louis. A flabby man of no strong opinions he was the tragic figure of the tragic drama of this backwoods community. Torn between his generous impulses to forgive her, and the pleadings and urgings of his seven brothers, two sisters, aged uncle, and widowed mother, he announced today, his large eyes aflame in tears:

"I can't live with her no more. H't would ruin mah character."

Edie, red-eyed from continuous weeping for her illegitimate babe, now in a New Orleans hospital but which she tried to present to Louis as a gift from heaven brought to her by a large dog, kept to her one-room cabin, afraid to cross the threshold.

Cardinal Home After U. S. Visit

NAPLES, Nov. 14.—(UP)—Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, arrived from New York today in the liner Conte Di Savoia after his visit to the United States.

MRS. SIMPSON GUEST OF KING

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(UP)—King Edward was at Fort Belvedere, his country home, for the week-end today. Mrs. Wallis Simpson was in the country for the week-end too, and though only the king's guests and members of his household knew for sure, it was believed Mrs. Simpson was at Fort Belvedere, a member of his party.

The king arrived at Fort Belvedere early yesterday evening, going there direct from Portland, where he inspected the great home fleet and as commander in chief ordered commanding officers to splice the main brace—to issue an extra ration of rum to the seamen.

Mrs. Simpson left her Cumberland Terrace home early in the evening also, and it was assumed she and the king were puttingtering about the garden today, tending the flowers which friends say are a mutual interest that has helped to bind their friendship.

A visit to Fort Belvedere would be appropriate for Mrs. Simpson. It is near Windsor castle, and friends of Mrs. Simpson say she traces her ancestry back to Pagan De Warfield, a Norman knight who came over with William the Conqueror in 1066 and was given a manor which became known as Warfield's walk.

Bridge Parade Set For Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—(UP)—California holiday seekers jammed San Francisco and her sister cities today to participate in the climaxed day of the state's most spectacular celebration, observing opening of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge.

A half million people packed San Francisco's downtown area yesterday to witness a three-hour parade in which thousands of persons representing virtually every community in the state, marched.

The three-day carnival was to end tonight with a huge parade. This one will feature brilliantly illuminated floats and pyrotechnics.

Thousands of cars continued to pass each hour over the bay bridge and thousands of persons lined the waterfront and observation points on the city's hills to watch nightly fireworks and illumination displays from the bay.

The congress will be conducted in accordance with principles laid down in the Pope's encyclical of last summer concerning clean movies.

16 NATIONS NOTIFIED OF MOVE TODAY

Foreign Countries Denied Right to Use Danube, Rhine, Elbe Rivers

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—(UP)—Germany, springing another diplomatic "Saturday surprise," announced today her abrogation of the Versailles treaty clauses which internationalized the Rhine, Danube, Elbe and Oder rivers.

Free of Taxation

Germany sent notes to 16 powers concerned, advising them of her action. The clauses gave foreign countries the right to use these rivers within the German boundary free of taxation and under international control.

Germany made the announcement after most diplomatic offices in Europe were closed for the week end, following the precedent set when she renounced the military provisions of the treaty, because the renitization of the Rhine, and declared her new aerial and naval programs.

Committee Work Ends

Germany considered that the denunciation automatically ended the existence of the international committees set up to apply the pertinent clauses of the Versailles treaty.

It was officially stated Germany hereafter will not participate in any of the meetings and discussions of these committees.

No mention was made of the Memel river, which was also internationalized under the Versailles treaty. This omission, however, was due to the fact the Memel river forms the frontier between German East Prussia and Lithuania and it, therefore, is international per se.

IL DUCE'S SON TO MARRY SOON

ROME, Nov. 14.—(UP)—Mussolini's eldest son, Vittorio, has won his father's consent to enter the motion picture business and to get married. Film circles were reliably informed today.

ARCTIC FLIERS AIDED BY NEW LANDING FIELD

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—Father Bernard Hubbard, famous "glacier priest" of Santa Clara University, has returned from his regular trip into the higher ice regions of Alaska, bringing him a remarkable balance sheet of hard luck and achievements.

The sheet, he declares, registers four disasters against three successes.

The four disasters of the trip were as follows:

First: John Dimond, 16-year-old son of one of Alaska's delegates to congress and the youngest member of the expedition, was burned when one of the fishing boats on which they were traveling caught fire. After struggling through two miles of mud and icy water, he succeeded in catching a ride into Juneau, where prompt treatment saved his life.

Valuable Equipment Lost

Second: One boat was wrecked in the treacherous Taku river, and camera and scientific equipment valued at $2,000 were lost. Father Hubbard and his companions managed to scramble to safety.

Third: Ed Levin, the priest's first assistant, tumbled heading into a 50-foot crevasse but got off with two broken ribs and some torn muscles.

Fourth: Father Hubbard himself slipped off the top of a knuckle. Blood poisoning set in and the only emergency treatment possible under the circumstances was to keep his hand emerged in boiling water until the swelling went down and the infection checked.

Proud of Successes

Against these mishaps, however, Father Hubbard reports three major successes which he declares were well worth all the dangers, privations and sufferings of the trip.

These are:

First: The unexpected discovery and development on the top of the Taku ice cap of an emergency air field for planes flying between Adlin, British Columbia and Japan. The newly discovered field is about a mile square, of hard packed snow on which any plane with either wheel, pontoon, or ski landing gear can alight. It is situated about half way between the two points. The expedition marked off a suitable area with red flags and notified all northern pilots.

Explores Dinosaur Theory

Second: The finding of the only Taku Indian still alive who had seen the giant fossil tracks in North British Columbia and which until Father Hubbard had viewed them were believed to be dinosaur tracks. The Indian led the expedition to the place but Father Hubbard was able to ascertain that they were only bear tracks, although long and 3 inches wide. Father Hubbard estimated them as being only about 200 years.

Third: The discovery of a "fossil fjord" near the bottom of Twin Glacier Lake. He was able to establish that the bottom of the lake was 600 feet below sea level and that the lake had at one time apparently been part of the inner passage along the Alaskan coast. A delta formed by the Taku River centuries ago had marooned the fjord into a lake that is now filled with turning icebergs that come down from the Twin glaciers.

Fourth: Father Hubbard visited the famous Matanuska Valley colony, which he declares is a huge success. He insists the colony has made the Alaskan inhabitants agricultural minded and instead of waiting for foxes to run into their traps are turning their hands to cultivating the land. At any time, he declares, they can produce a cash crop in the making of cheese alone.

SANTA BARBARA TOO POWERFUL FOR OXY

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 14.—(UP)—Undeclared Santa Barbara State college retained its clean slate last night by pushing over an easy 27-0 victory over Occidental.

The only obstruction now remaining in Santa Barbara's drive for the Southern California conference football title is San Diego State, also undefeated in league play.

KEN Murray SAYS:

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—That perennial lover of stage, screen, and everyday life, John Barrymore, did it again when he finally married Elaine Barrie after many hectic months of courtship.

Sowho, the actor manages to get so many wives that instead of being a great Hamlet, one would think he's rehearsing for Henry, the Eighth.

There's one thing about John! He always has a large following, even if it's only his ex-wives collecting alimony.

Of course, from the way Elaine chased the tired Romeo all over the country, we'd say that there is one girl who takes the pursuit of happiness literally.

But Remember:
All the world loves a lover, whether it be in Hollywood, or England.

Police News

After four youthful Santa Ana boys, each about 16 years old, were reported missing yesterday, city police investigated report of William J. Tway, 417 Linwood, that his $560 Graham-Paige Crusader sedan, black with green stripes, was taken yesterday from its parking place on Walnut street, beside Santa Ana high school. Officers were investigating possibility the youths may have borrowed the car for a joy-ride. George Demetriou, proprietor of the Palace cafe, Fourth and French, reported his $1400 Reo sedan as stolen from a place near the cafe, yesterday, but later reported he had found it not far away.

Reported stolen from Victor Pineda, Route 4, West Fifth street, Santa Ana, Thursday, a blue and white Pilot bicycle was found by Officers Chet Gross and L. C. Snodgrass early yesterday morning at Pine and Flower streets. It had been abandoned.

Explaining to city police that the refrigerator he found outside of a local store, left there by mistake about 8:30 o'clock last night, might be stolen, or "might get cold during the early morning hours," Bert Dawson, merchant patrolman, asked that the merchant be contacted and warned. Officer Harry Pritchard investigated and reported to the merchant, who moved the refrigerator inside.

Jess Negrette, 26, 235 East Trustlow, Fullerton, was booked at the county jail today to begin serving a 30-day sentence after conviction of petty theft. He was jailed by Capt. M. E. Andrade of Anaheim police.

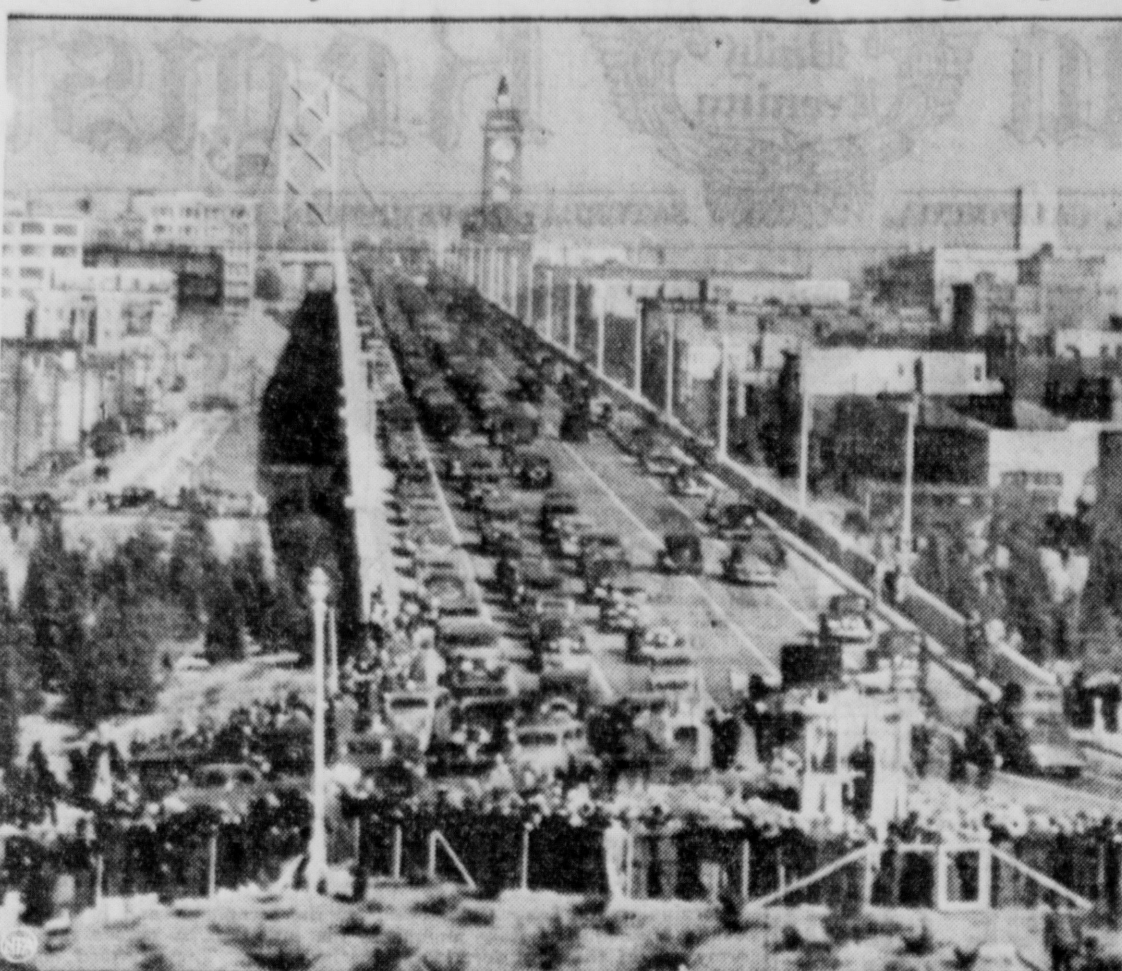

Result of his arrest for speeding a year or more ago in San Jose and his subsequent failure to appear in court to answer the charge, Wayland D. Horton, 27, Costa Mesa, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff John Ryan last evening and jailed here. He is held for San Jose prosecution on a warrant issued by Judge O'Connor of the northern city.

Through report of Col. M. B. Wellington of Lemon Heights, that an abandoned car could be found along Manchester boulevard a mile west of Brookhurst, yesterday, Deputy Sheriff Parker and Potter investigated, finding the owner to be the McCoy Ford dealer, Anaheim, who reported the car, a Ford sedan, had been stolen Thursday from an Anaheim street. The car, when found, was registered to J. C. Courtney, 1605 Louise street, Santa Ana, who explained he had just traded it to the Anaheim firm.

PAY SOUGHT BY FAIR EMPLOYEES

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 14.—(UP)—Thirty workers formerly employed by the 22nd agricultural district today sought the aid of District Attorney Thomas Whelan in securing $4000 in back wages assertedly owed 111 former employees of the district.

Spokesmen for the workers who convened in Whelan's office said claims have been filed with Deputy State Labor Commissioner Stanley M. Gue ranging from $2 to $300. The money assertedly is owed for work at the recent San Diego County fair which was staged by the district.

Whelan said D. A. Noble, secretary-treasurer of the 22nd agricultural district, told him the district board was to meet this afternoon to discuss sale of a racing option to the Del Mar Turf club headed by Bing Crosby.

Whelan quoted Noble as saying, "If the deal goes through, the workers will be paid next Monday."

PETTY THEFT CASE DISMISSED TODAY

Under Section 1377 of the California penal code, which permits compromising of a case when a defendant shows willingness to pay debts which he agrees are owing, Judge Kenneth Morrison, in Santa Ana justice court today, dismissed petty theft charges against George Edwards, Los Angeles cafe owner and dance hall proprietor, who admitted he had presented several checks here which were bad. It was shown that several Santa Anans, creditors of Edwards, were willing to have the charges against Edwards dismissed since the debts are now being paid. It was probable that a similar charge against Edwards in Anaheim justice court, brought by an Orange man, would be dismissed as Edwards expressed willingness to pay that debt, too.

ESCOBAR KAYOES QUINTANA IN FIRST

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—(UP)—Sixto Escobar of Puerto Rico wore his world bantamweight boxing crown at an even jauntier angle today after a successful one-round defense of his title against Carlos (Indian) Quintana of Panama.

Sixto's right fist crashed onto Quintana's jaw after a minute and 49 seconds of the scheduled 15-round battle. The full-blooded Cholo Indian dropped and was counted out. Quintana boasted 65 victories in his 75 previous fights.

PLAN TO DEVELOP SEAPLANE HARBORS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(UP)—Plans to spend more than $1,500,000 in development of a chain of commercial seaplane harbors and bases on Pacific islands, which would be of tremendous military value in event of war, were revealed today.

The Board of U. S. Army engineers, while surveying the islands both from military and commercial viewpoints, has recommended expenditure of $1,000,000 to develop a medium-draft harbor and seaplane basin at Wake Island, and $500,000 for similar improvements at Midway Island. The two Atolls, and the island of Guam, are this country's "stepping stones" from the Hawaiian islands to the Philippines.

GERMANY ANNULS TREATY CLAUSES

Continuance of the internationalization of rivers in German territory has always been considered illogical and unbearable by the Nazis.

Logical Follow-up

An official declaration called today's move a logical follow-up of the reoccupation of the Rhineland on March 17. On that day, in fact, with the re-establishment of German sovereignty over German soil by Fuehrer Hitler, there were strong reports in diplomatic quarters that Germany would immediately denounce the internationalization clauses.

A foreign office spokesman, however, told the United Press at that time that the reports were "premature," but added that negotiations were proceeding with the powers concerned to return the rivers to German sovereignty.

ORANGE WOMEN HEAR TALKS ON MEXICAN LIFE

ORANGE, Nov. 14.—Continuing a program on Old Mexico, members of the Second Toastmasters' section of the Orange Woman's club shared a luncheon meeting at the clubhouse yesterday with Mrs. Leo Douglas presiding. Roll call responses were facts about ancient Mexico.

Preceding the program presented by members, Rosa L. Taylor of the Orange union high school faculty gave a talk on public speaking, one of a series arranged for the section. Taylor stated that there are three kinds of material which may be used for talks, facts, ideas or conclusions and feelings. Gather material first by thinking, discussing and reading and then throw away half of it, he advised. A talk must have humor, conflict, action and appeal to the imagination, he declared.

Mrs. Bertha Neale gave an interesting account of the Mayan ruins in Mexico which she said, have been found to cover an area of 150,000 square miles in Yucatan. She told of the religion of the ancient peoples who once lived in Mexico and of the mystery which surrounds their history.

Plans were made for a program to be presented at a meeting of the Woman's club January 18 and Mrs. Marah Adams, Mrs. Arthur T. Hobson and Mrs. Perry Grout were appointed to act as program committee. Mrs. L. F. Finley acted as toastmaster in the place of Mrs. V. A. Wood who was unable to be present.

Mrs. Alfred Leech will speak on Christmas in Spanish-American countries at the next meeting to be held December 11 when a Christmas party will be held. The month's program committee will be in charge of decorations and a gift exchange will take place.

Mrs. Douglas appointed Miss Fannie Haebler and Mrs. E. B. Workman as program committee for February and March. Those present were Mesdames Douglas, Perry Grout, Alfred Leech, Arthur T. Hobson, Bertha Neale, Edith McKillip, E. B. Workman, Sarah Adams, Henry Terry, L. F. Finley, and Miss Fannie Haebler.

SAN CLEMENTE BUILDING LAW HELD INVALID

The San Clemente city ordinance requiring all buildings in the city to have white stucco walls and red tile roofs, was declared invalid by Superior Judge G. K. Scofield late yesterday in a friendly test case arranged between the city council and the Bank of America, principal property holder of the Spanish Village.

The ruling on the ordinance, it was said, does not affect building restrictions making the same requirements, covering all property that has been sold in the city. However, it was interpreted that the Bank of America, as successor to the original grantor in deeds and contracts covering property in San Clemente, holds in its hands the power to enforce these restrictions or ignore them.

The court ruling merely affected the ordinance itself, it being held that the ordinance exceeded the police powers of the city, which would extend only to matters of health, or fire protection, or the zoning of the city as to types of buildings, but would not extend to types of construction beyond the matter of health or fire protection.

The ordinance was passed originally in 1923 by a former council, with the idea of incorporating the building restrictions into it, and thereby carrying out the scheme for development of the city.

Three months ago, when the Bank of America brought before the present council the proposal to amend the ordinance, and permit different type of construction in certain portions of the city, City Attorney H. Z. McKinney advised the council that the ordinance was invalid on the point of building restrictions.

Public discussion of the question showed a division of opinion among the people, regarding complete repeal, or amendment of the ordinance affecting portions of the city. The council thereupon decided to permit a friendly test case of the ordinance decide its course.

This was arranged through the Capital company, Bank of America holding company, which filed petition for a writ of mandate against city officials, to compel issuance of building permits for certain types of construction. The court granted the writ, after the matter was laid before the court by City Attorney McKinney, representing the officials, and Attorney William J. Day, for the Capital company.

A coroner's jury at Winbiger's funeral chapel this morning held the death of Elmer R. Curtis, 73, well-known Santa Ana resident and retired barber, 222 South Main street, who died at Santa Ana Valley hospital Thursday night, three hours after he was struck down at Main and Chestnut streets, by an automobile, to be "accidental."

Mr. Curtis, for whom funeral services will be conducted Monday at 10 a. m. in Winbiger's mortuary chapel, was crossing Main street, about 8:30 p. m., from the northeast corner of the intersection to the northwest corner, going to his home, a block away, when the automobile, driven by Dr. John M. Bulpitt of Santa Ana, struck him, breaking both legs and causing head injuries. Dr. Bulpitt said he was traveling between 15 and 25 miles per hour and did not see Mr. Curtis until almost upon him, due to lights of approaching cars.

The unidentified bicyclist, who died Thursday evening from injuries received near Serra when struck by an automobile, was still unidentified today. Inquest is pending. The traffic death record for the county thus far this year stands at 68, 14 ahead of last year's record at the same time.

Jack W. Snell, 23, 213 Main street, Placentia, was in county jail today, charged with drunk driving and being drunk on county highway, after an accident about 4:45 a. m. today on Lincoln avenue, half a mile west of Euclid, in which he and Harry Augustus, Placentia, suffered lacerations of face, head and hands. They were treated at county hospital.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

CARDINAL PRINCIPLE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—There is one guiding principle upon which President Roosevelt seems to be planning the second phase of his New Deal. It is that a wider distribution of money must be forced to those who will immediately spend it.

The idea is not exactly new, but the increasing importance of it in the minds of his policy makers is decidedly new and of controlling importance. It will furnish the official inspiration for carrying out the new taxing policy, the new NRA revival, continued public works spending, and, in fact, affords the basis for governmental activity in the next four years.

If you understand it, you will understand the motive behind most of the developments from Washington now being prepared.

THEORY

In simplest terms, it means the government is bent on making the nation spend. It wants to squeeze the earnings out of corporations, business and incomes, and divert this money into channels where it will be spent.

The greater share of the money will be diverted, as far as possible, to the government and the wage earner. The investor will get some of it, but he will not hold on to it long. It is assumed that the investor takes his dividends and reinvests them, and, therefore, he is not a spender, but an accumulator of money.

The government will get a substantial portion of his dividends by heavy taxation on unearned income (no increases are contemplated for the present, but the present tax law will get a lot for the government.)

Corporations and business will fare better, they say, because they will profit from increased business due to the increased purchasing power of the wage earner and spending by the government. The wage earner will spend his wage increase or his bonus immediately, it is expected, and will not invest it or save it or deposit it in banks. The government will take its share (expected by some authorities to reach the colossal total of seven billion dollars next year) and distribute a portion of it in the way it has been doing, that is to non-wage earners, for public building, for soil conservation, farmers, etc.

That is the Roosevelt working theory, reduced to terms which are probably too simple to be officially approved, but which are basically accurate.

Note: The recent wave of distribution of earnings by large business concerns to employees and stockholders is an example of part of the theory. The new tax bill made the distribution advisable, but the movement was undertaken by business men on their own initiative. This success, of course, does not mean that the inefficiency and inequities of the tax law will not have to be revised at the coming session.

CONSIDERATIONS

This analysis does not concern the question of whether the theory is good, bad or indifferent, but only that it is. The only certainty of its future application is rooted in the fact that the best of Roosevelt reorganizers consider it is absolutely necessary to preserve the capitalist system. It is inevitable not only for economic reasons, but social and political reasons as well.

The social aspect of it is that there are supposed to be about 9,000,000 persons still unemployed. The political possibilities as an antidote are obvious.

The economic phase has already been discussed. It furnishes purchasing power where it is needed and keeps money moving.

COMING EVENTS

Results to be expected from it, of course, are higher prices, more active business, and probably a boom, although the Roosevelt reorganizers have many brakes they intend to apply against the latter consequence. The government controls the fields of credit to such an extent that it has reason to hope that it will be able to keep prices from getting out of hand. Essentially, that is what a boom is: purchasers bidding for goods, beyond the ability of producers to furnish. That time, of course, may or may not be a long way off.

While these ultimate possibilities enter the realm of conjecture, for the present, it seems to be a reasonable certainty that prices will increase and production accelerate to a much greater extent.

The talk of acceleration and price increase is in terms of the next six months to a year.

SPAIN

Good military judges here expect the Franco forces to settle down for a while in Madrid. After they take it, they will mop up, as the military men say, meaning that they will consolidate and strengthen their position.

It will be a long time before they will be able to get on to Catalonia, the last outpost of Red-dom down around Barcelona. That industrial region has long been a hotbed of Communists and syndicalists who are thoroughly entrenched.

WILLIN'

More than one Roosevelt reorganizer who has seen the President recently is saying he would not mind having a few business men drop in to see him. Apparently, he does not mean those organization leaders who were most active in the campaign against him, but the independent industrial leaders. It would not be surprising if a few drop in at the White House during the next few days, and after his return from South America, to get a new understanding of things.

LAFFLEY GAME TO DECIDE TITLE

Orange, Laguna In Playoff

LAGUNA BEACH FRIGHTENED BY VALENCIA, 7-6

MINOR DIVISION
(Final Standings)

Laguna Beach	4	0	1000
Brea-Olinda	3	1	500
Tustin	2	2	300
San Juan Capistrano	1	3	250
Valencia	0	4	100

Barely musing out an inspired Valencia 11, 7 to 6, Laguna Beach ended a perfect grid season yesterday to win the Orange league (minor division) title and the right to play Orange for the conference championship.

Coach Maurice ("Red") Guyer's Artists, who were pre-seasonally tipped to finish no better than third or fourth, sustained all beliefs that it is one of the most surprising teams in the history of the Orange league. Aside from this being but their second year of conference competition, the champions are by far the lightest outfit in the league, with a team average of scarcely 180.

In adding the Tigers to their victory parade of six straight games, Laguna Beach was compelled to deliver all its goods and only until after the final gun did they feel sure of victory.

After a see-sawing first quarter with neither team threatening, Bruce Delany, Artist right half, snaggred a Valencia lateral on his own 20 and raced 70 yards before being hauled down on the Tiger 10.

Coach Guyer immediately inserted George Brandt, a fast substitute fullback, who ran the next play wide around left end to score without being touched. The conversion, which proved to be the winning point, was executed by the well educated toe of Rollo Beck, who later kicked a sensational 70-yard boot from his own one yard line. On two other occasions Beck contributed kicks that were well over 50 yards.

Coming back in the third quarter, Valencia struck even more unexpectedly than Laguna when Del Jones, outstanding backfield man on the field, ripped through the entire Artist team after attempting to pass, and ran 75 yards to a touchdown. An attempted running conversion failed to knot the score. The lineup:

BREA-OLINDA RUNS AMUCK TO BURY TUSTIN

With the final straw of hope for a league championship going to the winner, Brea-Olinda's Wildcats outlasted Tustin's Farmers and came from behind to outscore the Farmers, 31-13, in the final minor league game of the season at Brea yesterday.

Scoring first in the middle of the first quarter on a 34-yard pass from Merle Shores to Royal Cox, Brea-Olinda saw its 6-0 lead dissipated when Paul Francis ran the next kick-off 75 yards before he was hauled down on the Brea 5. A penalty to the one, and a line buck by Francis tied the score, and Tustin led 7-6 when Francis' pass to Walt Linker converted.

The Farmers rallied again in the next few minutes. A pass from Francis to W. Linker and a lateral to Monroy, followed by a 55-yard run by the Tustin fullback, gave the Tillers a seven point lead.

On the subsequent kickoff, the Wildcats completed a hideout play, Ledbetter passing to Cox, who, although covered, grabbed the ball and raced 44 yards to another score. Baker converted, and the game was tied 13-13.

Still in the first half, Captain Tom Anderson of the Wildcats intercepted a flanker lateral pass and scored another touchdown, giving the home team a 19-13 lead, which held at the half.

The Wildcats were wild at the start of the second half, working down to Tustin's two. It took four plays before Baker could drive over for the tally. Late in the fourth quarter, with both coaches substituting freely, Brea-Olinda moved to the Farmer 11, where Shores went over.

Portland Beavers To Train At Fullerton

BY PERRY MAYNARD
FULLERTON, Nov. 14.—The Portland club of the Pacific Coast league, 1936 pennant winners, will train at Fullerton next spring, replacing the San Diego Padres, here for the past two seasons.

This assurance was given today, following a visit to Fullerton by Bill Sweeney, manager of the Portland club, who has been attending sessions of the Pacific Coast league meeting in San Francisco and is now on his way to Cleveland with Mrs. Sweeney.

Portland was extended an invitation to Fullerton through the junior chamber of commerce some months ago when it was learned that San Diego would not return, President Lane deciding to keep his Padres at home.

When no final word or contract was sent to Fullerton, Portland officials were disappointed. Sweeney was sent to Fullerton to check on the field and find out about the situation. City councilmen gave tentative approval for the Portland club unofficially last night, clearing the way for the spring training agreement.

Sweeney inspected the ball park and was greatly pleased with the heavy turf and spring soil being ideal for ball players limbering up for the wars, he observed. He was particularly interested in the park fence remarking that he had heard about it from W. C. Tuttle, president of the Coast league.

Portland trained at Ventura last spring but found it unsatisfactory and finished the training season at Stockton where conditions were but little better. Fullerton offers much more ideal arrangements and weather, Sweeney said.

Commenting on his spring training policies, Sweeney said he believed in all the stiff competition he could get for his ball players and would play full nine-inning games against every Coast League club and major league club he could sign up to meet.

He expects to bring the Pirates, Cubs and White Sox to Fullerton for the practice sessions and will play the regulars rather than the rookies, he said.

After five long, lean years, Orange high school's football team was back on top again today by virtue of a 6-6 tie with Anaheim yesterday at Anaheim.

A tie was all Coach Stewart wanted. The Panthers needed to clinch first place in the Major division of the Orange league. They will play Laguna Beach next Friday afternoon for the all-conference championship.

The place has not been decided but there is a chance some neutral gridiron possibly Santa Ana's Municipal Bowl—will be selected by the two schools, who must settle the problem for themselves. There is no league rule to govern the situation.

The fighting Panthers played hard ball against the Colonists and early lead when he cracked over right tackle in the first period for 6 points. Fletcher's pass for the extra point went over the end zone. Captain Gilbert Nehrig blocked Angle Oliveras' punt on the Anaheim 22 from where Larry Timken, Fletcher and Beck took six plays to put over a touchdown.

Anaheim didn't tie the score until the final play of the third quarter when Ted DeVellos, Anaheim's end, took a shovel pass from Quarterback Oliveras and scampered 7 yards to a score. Anaheim got in scoring position on passes and a 15-yard penalty assessed against Coach White for running onto the field to protest a decision by Referee Art Nunn after an Anaheim fumble.

LINCOLN WORLD'S NO. 1 CITY

It Is When The Cornhuskers Play Pitt's Panthers

BY HENRY MCLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 14.—If my old fifth grade geography teacher, a Miss Emma Wheeler, were to come into my life again today and ask me, as she used to, to name the three largest cities in the world I would answer, promptly and in a hurry, Lincoln, New York and London.

And Miss Wheeler would have to give me an A-plus and a respite from dusting the erasers and washing the boards for the answer, too, because Lincoln is the largest city in the world. There must be seventy-five or eighty million here today, and that's probably a conservative estimate from my window overlooking "O" street, the main drag, I can count ten million on one corner.

Traffic, both of the sidewalk and street variety, is impossible—no, that's not the right word. It was "impossible" three hours ago and has been getting steadily worse. By 1 o'clock, when the big push for Memorial stadium and the football joust between the Pittsburgh Panthers and the Nebraska Cornhuskers begins, the traffic could stop the Johnstown flood the first blow and still kick it to a fare the well in a confusion of confusion.

People, People Everywhere
I got caught in the human tide a few minutes ago and walked three blocks on the feet of a totally strange gentleman before either one of us noticed the difference. And my eyes, a pair of baby blue numbers which I prize highly, finished the trip resembling an archery target, so thickly were they clustered with feathers, dyed a deep red and stamped with a large "N."

The "N" of wearing feathers to football games may have passed out in other cities, but in Lincoln every chicken within a radius of 100 miles gives it all every Saturday morning. They have become so accustomed to this sacrifice that they walk in from coops soon as the family they live with has finished breakfast and mout without even as much as a prompting cluck.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, the grand old man of football who came to the College of Pacific from University of Chicago, captured the Far Western conference title for the Stockton school last night when his team defeated Fresno State college 17-0.

It was the first time College of the Pacific had captured the championship since Stagg came here in 1923, and it was the veteran coach's first victory over the Fresno eleven.

A crowd of 7000 saw the Pacific team move into an early lead and hold it throughout.

Scalpers Ask $15 For 'Husker-Pitt Football Tickets

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 14.—(UP)—Pittsburgh and Nebraska, two of the country's mightiest football forces, as well as two of the deadliest rivals the Walter Camp game has ever seen, went into the battle pit that is Memorial stadium here today.

The betting was 3 to 2 and take your pick.

Nebraska, beaten only by Minnesota, and then only by a touchdown that came in the dying moments of the game, will field its finest team of many years.

The second greatest crowd in the history of Nebraska football will watch the game. All of the 35,000 seats have been sold, and scalpers were asking—and getting—$15 for single tickets.

Nebraska hasn't beaten Pitt since 1923. The Cornhuskers have gained several times in the past 15 years but not one win.

Bronco Record Gets Test

A great backfield ace and a great lineman tangle when undefeated, untied Santa Clara mixes with St. Mary's in their traditional game in San Francisco Sunday. The back is Don De Rosa, kicking, who carries the offensive hope of the Broncos against the Gaels' line, paced by Jerry Dennerline, lower right, tackle.

BY TINY THORNHILL

Head Coach, Stanford University
PALO ALTO, Nov. 14.—Santa Clara, the only untied and undefeated team on the Pacific Coast, finds the last three games on its schedule offering probably the stiffest opposition it has met this year.

St. Mary's tomorrow, Loyola at Los Angeles Nov. 22, and Texas Christian Dec. 12 is a row that would be tough for anyone to hoe, and one along which the Broncos may find a rude upset awaiting them.

When Santa Clara played Stanford in the opening game of the season, "Buck" Shaw's squad appeared to have the makings of a good team in defeating us. But in the three following contests the team did not have the competition to bring it up to championship caliber and, of course, did not play up to form.

In their last encounter, with a great Southern team, Auburn, the Broncos showed only flashes of championship football.

The fact is that the first half of the Santa Clara schedule found the team an untied quantity. The squad had not been in heavy enough competition to bring out the great possibilities that I believe it has.

Center of line strong

The Broncos have few great ball players but form a team that can rise to great heights when necessary. The squad is well balanced in every department.

The center men in the line, Dougherty at center, and Baisl and Rodgers at guards, form a great trio as any team in the country. In "Flash" Falaschi the Broncos have one of the great blockers and defensive backs on the coast. Don De Rosa is one of the best offensive backs of the year. A good line and some good running and passing backs compose a team that would go a long way in any league.

The game with St. Mary's probably will be the Broncos' biggest test. The Gaels are Santa Clara's traditional and natural rivals, and, over a period of many years, the Broncos have not been successful against "Slip" Madigan's boys. No matter which team is considered the stronger, the game always is closely fought, and breaks usually decide the outcome.

Although St. Mary's has something to fight for this season—redeeming itself after a disastrous trip east against Fordham and Marquette—I hesitate to venture a prediction. The Gaels will make it plenty tough for the Broncos, you may be sure, although the law of averages is with Santa Clara.

FROGS AFTER REVENGE
Loyola, coached by Tom Lieb, has played in hard luck most of the season, and, being up for Santa Clara, may get a few breaks that will result in an upset.

Luck seldom follows a football team all through the year, and catching the Broncos after their big game of the year against St. Mary's, the Lions will make a real game of it if Santa Clara shows any tendency to let down.

Texas Christian's Horned Frogs offer the last game on Buck Shaw's schedule, and it isn't going to be a soft one by any means.

The Frogs came to the coast last year and took an unexpected defeat from the Broncos, and this year will be on their toes, looking for revenge. "Slinging Sammy" Baugh's passes are due to click with deadly precision, and it will take all of Santa Clara's defense to halt them.

While the going will be tough in these last three games, I believe Santa Clara has the possibilities to go through the season undefeated. One letdown, however, and it will join the list of upsets in this season of upsets.

JOCKEY KAMAR SET DOWN FOR BAD RIDE

NARRAGANSETT PARK, R. I., Nov. 14.—(UP)—Jockey Charles Kamar, 17, of Amsterdam, N. Y., was ruled off American tracks for life as result of what stewards at Narragansett Park termed "an unsatisfactory ride on Reservist" in the third race at yesterday's meeting.

In the race in question, Reservist was leading as he went into the stretch, and was in an excellent position to win. Then for some reason, the horse appeared to go off the pace, permitting Paddy's Sister to come on and win.

Paddy's Sister, owned by C. Moscarelli and ridden by Collins, paid $5.90 to win. Reservist, owned by E. A. McCann, paid $3.10 to place.

Cookmen Come From Behind To Win Over Inspired Tigers, 3-6

Santa Ana's determined bid for an Eastern Jaysee conference football championship will be definitely decided at the Municipal bowl here next Friday night when the undefeated Dons play second-place Chaffey. A win or a tie will give Santa Ana the title, no matter what happens at Fullerton on Thanksgiving Day.

The Dons were feeling mighty thankful today that their Friday the thirteenth battle at Riverside was over and that they got 13 points to Riverside's 6 in the toughest game in the conference this year.

5000 See Crowd Game
A capacity crowd of nearly 5000 witnessed a great Santa Ana team play a gang of desperate, hard-fighting Bengals, that had everything to win and little to lose. Beaten at home for the first time in four years, Riverside lost its championship like a real team of champions. It "shot the works."

And Coach Bill Cook's gridders proved to all concerned that they were a great team in the second quarter when they came from behind after Riverside got off to a six-point lead. Johnny Lehnhardt was the man who spelled defeat for the Bengals when he dashed off his own right tackle for 19 precious yards through a broken field and scored standing up. It was a beautiful run down the sidelines by one of the greatest football players in Santa Ana Jaysee history. Lehnhardt added the extra point by cracking over right guard to give the Dons a 7-6 lead at the half.

There was a story behind the Dons' second score, made by Bill Greschner, the other Santa Ana touchdown twin.

Greschner, who was calling the plays at the time, got off one of the prize stunts of the year when he made the play up on the spur of the moment. Greschner, in the huddle, said, "pass play No. 55, deep to me; signals check; I will be over in the left-hand corner."

And there Greschner was—true to his word.

Bengals Get Jump
Here, in brief, is how the touchdowns were made. The play-by-play appears in an adjoining column.

(1) Holmes ran back Herbert's quick-kick to Santa Ana's 42 after five minutes had elapsed in the first quarter. Peterson broke loose for 12 yards and then he and Holmes took turns hitting the left side of the Santa Ana line until the ball was on the 3 yard line. There, Coach Cook rushed in his regulars but Peterson jammed it across on second down. The try for extra point was blocked.

(2) Santa Ana took the kickoff back to the 27, worked the ball to midfield. Tim Greschner kicked out of bounds on the Bengal's 23. Leest kicked back and the Dons went to a touchdown from their 42. Lehnhardt's passes to Erwin Youel put it on the 40. Lehnhardt went all the way on the next play, dodging down the sidelines and crossing the goal standing up.

(3) The Dons went 79 yards for their second touchdown in the third period. Greschner circled end for 29, Lehnhardt passed to Ed Stanley for 27 and then threw the hastily-improvised pass to Greschner for a touchdown.

Dons Laud Bengals
Coach Cook and his players unanimously agreed that the Bengals were the toughest team they have met this year. They thought that the defensive work of the Bengal backs was what stopped the Dons cold in the first quarter and had much to do with the meager success of their running plays.

Cook was high in his praise of the fighting spirit of his own team and didn't blame the second bunch for Riverside's touchdown, saying that he was sure the Bengals were going they probably would have scored on the first try.

Picking out any particular hero last night is a plenty tough job because every one of the Dons players turned in exceptional football games. Lanky, 185-pound Fred Erdhaus was probably the stand-out lineman. He kept after Riverside's backs for 30 minutes.

Radio KEHE will broadcast the Bulldogs-Eagles game from Gilmore stadium tomorrow.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—(UP)—A Los Angeles professional football team, the Bulldogs, will take the field tomorrow against the Eagles in a game against an eastern "paid-to-play" team and was conceded a chance of defeating the major league players.

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 14.—With Garden Grove Farm Center stressing the water problem as its most important activity for the coming year, the first meeting under the new corps of officers, headed by President Schmidt, was held in the Woman's Civic clubhouse Thursday night. Lethal Spray Administered To Morning Glories On Ranch

SMELTZER, Nov. 14.—Page Lucrezia Borgia, the girl who won fame for her knack with a cocktail shaker. Remember, Lucrezia's concoctions nearly always sent the drinkers to the Happy Hunting Grounds.

Here in Smeltzer, Harry Woodington, head of the Smeltzer Lima Bean Growers' association, has gone Lucrezia one better. His poisonous highballs are not meant for human lips, but are designed to bring death to Morning Glories.

And Time Marches On! Experimenting on a 40-acre tract of land where the obnoxious Morning Glory is particularly prevalent, Woodington has set out some 9000 pint jars containing a lethal dose of arsenic and soda. The jars, set at an angle in the ground, are planted by several of Woodington's employees.

One of the long streamers from a nearby Morning Glory is placed in the open mouth of the jar. After four days spent "drinking" the deadly cocktail, the Morning Glory kicks the bucket. It takes just about that long for the dose to reach the roots of the plant and do its deadly work.

Woodington estimates that it will take about six weeks before he can ring down the curtain on his arsenic cocktail party.

Speaker Says Hitler Not a Genius

FULLERTON, Nov. 14.—"Hitler is neither a genius, nor an orator, but a spell-binder who knows the German national psychology," according to John Brown Mason, forum speaker, who recently talked on "The Rise of Hitler and National Socialism" at the Fullerton group meeting.

The speaker, recently returned from Germany, outlined the German situation, declaring the leadership of Hitler remains an enigma. He told of the oppressions that led to the German crisis, and of the rise of Hitler to power, declaring that Hitler is a man of political genius, hard work and strong will, with a belief in himself and in the nationalistic tendencies of the people.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARCIA CANFIELD, daughter of wealthy PHILIP CANFIELD, knows that the neighborhood is buzzing with gossip over the sudden disappearance of FRANK KENDRICK, whose engagement to Marcia has been announced.

Since the disappearance, a shortage in Kendrick's business accounts has been discovered.

Refusing to let others know how deeply she has been hurt, Marcia goes to the dramatic club try-outs and is given the leading part in the forthcoming play, DOROTHY OSBORN, who dislikes Marcia, is given a less important part.

Afterward Marcia, her friend, HELEN WADDELL, and several others stop at TONY STELLICCI'S restaurant. Four men enter and stage a holdup. Marcia's purse, containing a ring that was her mother's, is taken.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV

ON the morning after the Stagecraft Guild tryouts and the Dog Wagon holdup, Marcia breakfasted as usual with her father. Both of these survivors of the Canfield line were healthy enough to be good-humored of mornings, and therefore talkative, but it was seldom that they had as much fuel for conversation as now.

Mr. Canfield, as a practical person, could offer Marcia little solace in the loss of her mother's ring. It was probable, he pointed out, that the bandits would discard the worn setting and dispose of the ruby by methods which left little hope of recovery.

Late events of interest from all parts of the world are portrayed in the newscast which completes the bill.

Modern Poets

By MISS BEULAH MAY

"THE REST IS SILENCE"

Horatio speaks:
Beyond these ancient walls of Elsinore
A shrouding mist is folded on the snow.
(Here by the battlements he leans no more,
Watching the guard below.)

League after league along the cliff the gray
Wide water darkens with the darkening West.
(O troubled soul, by what uncharted way
Have you gone forth to rest?)

Within, the shadows creep across the walls,
Through the long corridors as dusk grows dim.
(The echoing vastness of the vaulted halls
Tonight is full of him.)

A gust of wind steals shuddering from the floor
Where once he paced his hours of heart-wrung watch.
(It may be that his foot is at the door,
His hand upon the latch.)

"The rest is silence"—Ah, my liege, my prince!

Though storm winds sweep the seas and cannons roar,
Silence is on thy lips, and ever since,
Silence in Elsinore!

—Mable Earle in Atlantic.

AFTER THE PLAY

Again the city street—night-glare and rain.
Gone is the old sad court of Elsinore:

The haunted queen, with shame at her soul's core;
Her guilty lord who tries to pray—in vain.

Sleat, mad Ophelia, kind Polonius slain;
And Hamlet with his boy's heart hot and sore,

Heir to all Love's and Denmark's hopes before;
To-day, to all bewilderment and pain.

Who wert thou, Shakespeare?—thou who loomed dim
Behind these vivid creatures of thy dreams?

Horatio walks my homeward way with me;
Hamlet's my child, so yearn my tears o'er him;

But Shakespeare bides in shadow, So, God seems Unreal—and I, His dream, reality!

—Marion Wildman Fenner, in Sonnet Sequences.

JURORS USE STEREOSCOPE

TOLEDO, (UP)—Lewis H. Clement, a handwriting expert, had jurors look through an old-fashioned stereoscope at a $33 check, to prove that the words, "commission in full," had been written on the check at the time it was made out, instead of later, as contended by the plaintiff.

HEPBURN STARS IN NEW FILM AT WEST COAST

In "A Woman Rebels," which opened at the Fox West Coast theater yesterday Katharine Hepburn, Herbert Marshall and an excellent support cast triumph measurably over an elaborate and complex story of structural difficulties.

"A Woman Rebels" is preponderantly a woman's picture in its thematic concerns, its emotional problems, its treatment and appeal. It is essentially the battle of a brave and determined woman, Pamela Thistlewaite (Hepburn) to liberate her sex in England from the rigid and enslaving conventions of the mid-Victorian era. In facing her task she goes through heart-break for herself and again for her daughter without benefit of clergy. She is urged to rebellion by the implacable and all but inhuman coldness and social righteousness of her lawyer father, Donald Crips. In the process she edits a pioneer woman's magazine, making it the mouthpiece of all rebellious women crying in a new day—and eventually in her aging years admits her love for Herbert Marshall when other loves and adventures have brought both anguish and triumph.

Katharine Hepburn ably summons all her resources to make the role impressive and sympathetically appealing. Herbert Marshall plays his part with quiet restraint and warm humanity, shading it with mellow humor and grace. Donald Crips is excellent in his portrait of bitter, stubborn and irreconcilable parent who believes his daughters, Miss Hepburn and Elizabeth Allen, spoiled and intractable youngsters because they are not docile and subjugated. Elizabeth Allen contributes a pathetic role of the daughter who dies, after a brief marriage to David Manners, and who suggests to the older sister that she pretend her own child is Elizabeth's. Doris Dudley gives sharp poignancy to the part of the grown daughter.

A teacher confides that it's small wonder Latin is a dead language, considering the number of pupils who slaughter it each year.

ATTRactions AT LOCAL THEATERS

Herbert Marshall and Katharine Hepburn are shown in one of the scenes from "A Woman Rebels," which is playing now at the Fox West Coast theater.

Principals of "The Moon's Our Home," a fast-moving comedy romance, which plays at the State Sunday and Monday, are Margaret Sullivan and Henry Fonda.

Kent Taylor, Loretta Young and Don Ameche are shown here in a scene from "Ramona," the all-color romantic drama which shows at Walker's four days starting Sunday.

"Hideaway Girl," which opens at the Fox Broadway theater tomorrow, stars Shirley Ross and Robert Cummings, who are shown above. Martha Raye is the third star in the picture.

Coming Attractions

FOX BROADWAY

"Mad Holiday," with Elissa Landi and Edmund Lowe, and Stuart Erwin and Arline Judge in "Pigskin Parade" is the thoroughly entertaining program Manager Lester J. Fountain has booked for the Fox Broadway theater on next Thursday.

The general theme of "Mad Holiday" is nonchalance. Edmund Lowe, a film star who is fed up with detective roles, sails to get away from it all but is followed by Ted Healy, a press agent, who disgraces the entire publicity profession with tasteless antics during a series of murders.

Elissa Landi, authoress of Lowe's stories, helps to stage a phony murder as a ruse to prove that the star has identified himself with screen parts. A number of real murders follow because of a valuable diamond aboard the ship. Lowe and Miss Landi sleuth convincingly, but energetically until they catch up with the audience, which has spotted the villain early in the plot.

Edmund Gwenn, Zasu Pitts, Edgar Kennedy, Soo Yong, Walter Kingsford, Herbert Rawlinson, Raymond Hatton, Rafaela Ottiano, Harlan Briggs and Gustav von Seyffertitz are all good. Bright dialogue is supplied by the fine Ryerson and Edgar Allan Woolf.

"Pigskin Parade" is one of the maddest and the funniest of the cinema's musical extravaganzas. One of the picture's funniest scenes is when the Yacht club boys, all done up as Texas rooters in 10-gallon hats and chaps, take up their stance in the snow-filled Yale bowl and sing to the surprised Easterners. Another funny moment is when Stuart Erwin, the farmer football star, takes off his shoes to run the length of the slippery field for a touchdown.

FOX WEST COAST

"The Gay Desperado," starring Nino Martini and Leo Carrillo, the current attraction at the Fox Broadway theater, is proving one of the most popular pictures of the year. It is one of those clean films that appeal to every member of the family.

"Rose Bowl," second feature of the double bill, is another entertaining picture and the excellent program is topped off with a Silly Symphony, the "Three Mouseketeers," and a newscast.

For those who are in search of a real entertaining program the Broadway bill is recommended.

FOX WEST COAST

"Love Letters of a Star" with Walter Coy and Polly Rowles has been signed up by Manager Lester J. Fountain to open at the Fox West Coast theater on Sunday, Nov. 22. The companion picture will be James Dunn and Mae Clark in "Hearts in Bondage."

"Love Letters of a Star" is a confused and exciting murder mystery. The daughter of a wealthy family commits suicide after being blackmailed with letters to a matinee idol. The blackmailer is killed during an interview with her grief-stricken father. They attempt to hide the body rather than explain it to the police. There follow a lot of questions by one of those know-it-all detectives, another murder, and the solution is hung rapidly and convincingly on a previously unsuspected character.

The players include besides Coy and Rowles, Henry Hunter, C. Henry Gordon, Hobart Cavanaugh, Ralph Forbes, Alma Kruger, Samuel Hinds, Mary Alice Rice, Halliwell Hobbes, Rollo Lloyd, Olin Rowland, Warren Hymer and Virginia Brissac.

FOX WEST COAST

Lawrence Tibbett, gloriously singing three new songs and standing head and shoulders above the story they have given him, comes to the Fox West Coast theater next Thursday in "Under Your Spell," a picture that Manager Lester J. Fountain says is one of the hits of the year.

For the lovers of real music, "Under Your Spell" is a real treat. There is Tibbett's brilliant rendition of a scene from Gounod's "Faust," wherein he plays Mephistopheles. For others there is stressed the popular in tunes devised by Howard Dietz and Arthur Schwartz, notable songsmiths. Particularly there is the title song, which has the ingredients of best seller status.

Devised from stories by Bernice Mason and Cy Bartlett, the screen play by Frances Ryland and Saul Elkins tells of the browbeaten, tenor, bedeviled by testimonials, contests, concerts and the like, who walks out to a distant ranch, to be alone. But Wendy Barrie, society and spoiled, comes after him to win a bet that he will sing at her party. They fight and storm and battle each other from the ranch to New York, through a contract-break suit in court to a happy, romantic and laughable conclusion.

Accompanying Tibbett to the wide-open spaces is Arthur Treacher, wildly comic as a coddy formal English man servant who loses his reserve on a Western reservation and turns cowboy.

"Bulldog Edition" is the other feature of a double bill. It is an exciting newspaper picture in which Evalyn Knapp, Ray Walker and Regis Toomey are starred. The intense competition between rival newspapers, the battle of the press against entrenched crime and gangsters, and the exciting life lived inside and outside of their unkept city rooms, are combined into one of the gayest, thrilling and dramatic pictures of the newspaper world ever filmed.

WALKER'S

A baffling murder mystery and a truly great drama with skillfully blended moments of delightful comedy are the feature films selected for the entertainment of patrons of Walker's new comfort-stressing theater the last part of the week, beginning Thursday.

They are "The Case of the Velvet Claws," with Warren William, Claire Dodd, Winifred Shaw and Paula Stone; and "Magnificent Obsession," starring lovely Irene Dunn and dashing Robert Taylor. The second feature is one of the outstanding successes of recent years, which is being returned by request of Walker's patrons under the policy of playing big hits of the past which are nominated by popular demand for return engagements. Theatergoers are given request blanks on which they may indicate their favorite films of the past which they would like to see again. Recent hits which will be screened at Walker's soon include "The Great Ziegfeld," "Labeled Lady," "Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Big Game," "The Big Broadcast of 1937," "Picadilly Jim" and "Swing Time."

"The Case Against Mrs. Ames," a dramatic court story of a murder mystery, and "Two-Fisted Gentleman" are the feature attractions billed at the State theater next Tuesday and Wednesday. Madeleine Carroll and George Brent are the stars of the first, and James Dunn and June Clayworth of the second.

Starting Thursday, the feature is "Trullin' West," with Dick Forhan and Paula Stone, a thrilling story of the days of the old West.

The bill also includes a Three Stooges comedy, "False Alarm," a color cartoon, "Greedy Humpty Dumpty," a newscast and a chapter of "Custer's Last Stand."

STARK DRAMA AND COMEDY ON STATE SCREEN

Margaret Sullivan and Henry Fonda are cast as celebrities who have very tempers but who fall in love and are married in "The Moon's Our Home," which opens a two-day run at the State theater Sunday.

The second feature on the bill is "Road Gang," a drama of stark realism which was written by a former prisoner and which is said to lay bare the terrors to which prisoners are subjected in a penal institution run by grafting politicians.

Henrietta Crossman, Charles Butterworth, Lucien Littlefield and Beulah Bondi have supporting roles in "The Moon's Our Home." The plot has to do with an actress and explorer who have grown to dislike each other by reputation but fall madly in love when they meet under their real names and marry without realizing that each is the other's pet hate.

Leads in the other pictures are taken by Donald Woods, Kay Linaker and Henry O'Neil. It presents thrill after thrill as desperate convicts strike for freedom.

COME AND GET IT BOOKED FOR FOX BROADWAY THEATER

Edna Ferber's classic, "Come and Get It," has been booked by Manager Lester J. Fountain for an early showing at the Fox Broadway theater.

As close to the last word in entertainment value this new picture is expected to bring increased prestige to Samuel Goldwyn and the industry at large. The excellence of the story, screen play and direction are accentuated by lavish mounting that overlooks no detail. Typically American in theme and plot, the film combines heart appeal with gripping characterization by Edward Arnold.

Arnold is an ambitious lumber camp boss who will allow nothing to stand in the way of his determination to become a lumber king. Ruthlessly he casts aside the dance hall girl who is physical and spiritual mate to marry Mary Nash, daughter of his boss. When Joel McCrea and Andrea Leeds, children of the marriage, reach maturity, Arnold discovers that his first love has married Walter Brennan, his former buddy, and borne a daughter who has matured with all the beauty of her mother.

Falling in love anew, Arnold is faced with the rivalry of McCrea, his own son. Artfully, both fence for the favor of the girl with the climax reached in physical combat between the heir after which Arnold learns that his love regards him as an old man. He retires ungraciously, but pathetically as the picture ends.

be missed. It presents "My Man Godfrey," a gay and sparkling comedy, and "Girls' Dormitory," a romance of young love.

Carole Lombard and William Powell have the leads in the comedy, which is said to be deliciously daffy. The supporting cast includes Alice Brady, Gail Patrick, Jean Dixon, Eugene Palette and Alan Mowbray.

Simone Simon, the new French star; Herbert Marshall and Ruth Chatterton have the leads in the romance.

MARTHA RAYE HERE SUNDAY AT FOX BROADWAY

For real entertainment Manager Lester J. Fountain recommends "Hideaway Girl," which opens at the Fox Broadway theater tomorrow. Featuring Martha Raye and Shirley Ross, "Hideaway Girl" is one of those hilarious comedies that keeps you laughing from the opening "shot" until the end of the picture.

"Hideaway Girl" was previewed in Santa Ana about two weeks ago and those who saw the film were loud in their praises of the rollicking comedy.

And, whether or not you're one of Miss Raye's fans, you will have to admit that she has something that takes and lifts the young generation, particularly, right out of their seats.

Muriel Babcock, reviewing "Hideaway Girl" for a Los Angeles paper said "They were applauding and yelling and whistling for her yesterday while I kept trying to analyze her appeal. I decided she isn't pretty, she isn't really a good voice, but she has so much vitality and so much enthusiasm and such plus qualities of that indefinable something called personality which she projects in great waves from both stage and screen that she's good."

In the film "Hideaway Girl" Miss Raye breaks into song and dance (Hollerin' and shoutin') at meager excuse, and she's a real riot. "Hideaway Girl" is one of those slight, slight efforts which concerns a jewel thief, a stolen car, a missing heiress, a young millionaire sportsman and many champagne and yacht parties.

Shirley Ross, as the romantic lead, looks extremely attractive and sings prettily.

Wheeler and Woolsey in "Mummy's Boy" is the second half of the double bill.

KILLER DOG FILM AIDS DEFENSE CASE

In presenting Pete Smith Specialty "Killer-Dog," which has been added to the bill beginning at the Fox Broadway theater tomorrow Manager Lester J. Fountain points out that it was this picture that played a part in the defense of "Idaho," that seven months old puppy who was tried for "murder" in Brooklyn. In response to his appeal from Pete Smith, Judge Homer Benedict viewed "Killer Dog" before handing down the decision which saved Idaho's life.

News of the plight of Idaho, blamed for causing the drowning of a boy swimmer, stirred Pete Smith, maker of M-G-M specialties to offer "The Killer Dog" as a mouthpiece for a "defendant" unable to speak for himself.

Arrangements were made to erect a screen and set up the projection apparatus in Judge Benedict's office where from his chair, the magistrate watched the drama of another dog on trial for his life.

Sired by a sheep killer, and charged with following the murderous tendencies of his forebear, circumstantial evidence builds up a black case against the animal in the film, but the court agrees to a brief reprieve, in which the accused dog is given an opportunity to prove his innocence.

In a tense climaxing scene, armed watchers see the suspect creep upon the sheep corral and are about to fire, when the dog leaps at the throat of a coyote, the real killer in the case.

Pretty Rites

Returning home late this week from Santa Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Borchard, Fairview Road, made announcement of the marriage of Miss Anna Fasshauer and John Keiner Jr. Tuesday morning, November 10 in Santa Barbara Mission.

Until early this month Mr. Keiner had made his home with the Antonio Borchards. He is a nephew of Mrs. Borchard, while the new Mrs. Keiner is a daughter of Mr. Borchard's cousin. The two families were first brought together many years ago in Germany.

Local residents present for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Borchard and children, Vincent and Bernice; Mr. and Mrs. John Marling, Earhard Hageman of this city and Alvin Hoge of Orange.

The Rev. Father Jacobs of Oxnard officiated at the impressive rites in the Mission. The bridal party and 35 guests went to Santa Barbara Biltmore hotel for wedding breakfast, and the new Mr. and Mrs. Keiner departed soon after that for their honeymoon trip. They will live in Oxnard, where the bridegroom is engaged in ranching.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fasshauer of Oxnard. The bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. John Keiner of Hanover, Germany.

Talk on Peace

Carrying on an emergency peace campaign which opened last spring, a group of students from Pomona college provided a thought-provoking program for a meeting of Orange county branch A. A. U. W. Thursday evening in Unitarian church.

Mrs. Edith Thatcher had made arrangements for the program, over which her niece, Miss Lucille Wolfe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wolfe, of this city, presided. Miss Wolfe gave a short talk on the emergency peace campaign before introducing some of her fellow students.

Pat Shield as the first speaker talked on "Peace in a World of Politics." Miss Ruth Orison discussed "Education for Peace." Ed Benner, "Christianity and Peace." Miss Wolfe, "Women and Peace."

Mrs. Charles Briscoe sang two numbers, "On Wings of Song" and "Little Silver Wings."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lawrence Minge and Miss Anna Trythall.

Miss Martha Ehlen, president, conducted a short business meeting during which plans were made for a Christmas party to be held in December. Additional plans for the affair will be announced later.

Evening to Contract
In Lowe Home

Opening their home at 2005 North Ross street for a charmingly appointed dinner and bridge party, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Lowe were joined last night as dinner hosts by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence D. Coffing.

Thirty or more of their friends were invited to share the evening's friendly program which included contract play as a sequel to the dinner party. Mr. and Mrs. Lowe had adopted a gleaming golden color scheme in their flower arrangements, employing chrysanthemums in clear golden yellow not only for centering the individual tables, but to glow about the home.

Nine tables were called into service for contract play, with a pre-arranged holder of high score at each table.

"Oh look at the horses!" was the favorite exclamation of tiny folk of our motor age Wednesday and excitement ran high as the Armistice Day parade got under way. Seated on the curbs or held high in the patient arms of Mother or Daddy, the children were the lucky ones among the onlookers. Olga and Byron Fellows stood by with their two blonde and sturdy youngsters, Justine and Jerry. . . . Betty and Howard Bear were as intent on Son Billy as on the parade itself. No wonder, he has the pink and whitest complexion ever. . . . Josephine (Mrs. Dale) Elliott saw that Daughter Onnales had a grand time. . . . But wotta parade, boys and gals, wotta parade! John (Pia-cen-tia) Wagner and his "Hi, toots!" . . . Bill (Motor Cop) Nielsen on the police float with the "Hi, toots!" of an accident, croaking when the ambulance went dashing past to pick up one of the many faint-ees. "Ye gods! They went right by me!" . . . Lois (Blond Bombshell) Terry with her jeweled baten atop the band wagon. . . . But of all things in the parade to stir the blood and bring a mist of tears to the eyes, Grand Marshal G. D. Campbell, commander of Sedgwick Post G. A. R., riding at the head of the line with shoulders as erect and gaze as alert as though the 91 years of his age were reversed in figures.

"When a fellow will drive 2500 miles just to shoot holes in a piece of paper he should have his head examined," declares Roy (Doc) Horton, who is qualified to know. He just blew in from Rising Sun, Ind. where he and 500 others just like him, held their annual rifle shooting contest. He and Clarence (Anahelm) Sackett and a Santa Monica represented our grand old state. . . . Now that Doc is home, Maxwell (Attorney) Burke isn't going to be the only downtown business man to sport a 10-gallon hat. . . . What recent bride couldn't remember her age when she went to apply for the marriage license? Of course we can't mention names, but you might ask Lucille and Harry (Bride and Groom) Gully about it some time. . . . Paul (Sports Ed.) Wright has the bluest eyes and the longest lashes. It isn't fair to waste them on a mere man.

It isn't always the woman who pays. If threats made at Tux and Gown dance (other night) hold good, G. Stanley (Doc) Norton will have a nice little fine to pay into the 20-30 club treasury. Doc made the mistake of winning the prize waltz contest while he was dancing with Ruth (Mrs. Clarence) Ranney. . . . Two pretty gals, Mama Julia (Mrs. Frank) Sawyer and Daughter Margaret (School of Design) Sawyer. And if Marge grows any more stunning by her studies in costume designing, she'll establish a record or something. . . . If you want to see a cute blush, ask Zena (Teacher) Leek what type of exercises to take to keep one's figure. . . . Dan (of the Maloney) Maloney driving around in his little blue mischievous looking coupe with the world. . . . Lillian (Mrs. Ellis) Diehl leaving a local candy store laden with a big box of lollipops or sunthin, and looking rather luscious herself.

Nelle (Interior Dec.) Sumner recalls it and Mary (Photographer) Smart recalls it smilingly, that tale of the saucy babyhood of Anne (Stenog-Jr. Ebell-Tux and Gown) Tarver. One day when Mama Virginia (Mrs. B. E.) Tarver reproved her mischievous spite of a daughter as firmly as her own gentle nature would permit, the minx heard her out and then said very reprovingly, "Mama! Your petty-toat shows!" . . . Ruth (U. of Cal.) Warner home for the big game a week ago and down for a short visit with Mama Martha and Papa Wade Warner. Says she is just crazy about the city of foks and everything in the north and that she is having the time of her life and even getting in a lotta study. . . . Was that a narrow escape or was it a narrow escape, Betty (News-paper Gal) Vorce, and Eleanor (Stenog.) Wisner, when you drove your car over a 250 foot cliff with the whole Pacific ocean yawning below?

Max (Red-Head) Wilson is milk-manning and swears that four hours of sleep a night simply isn't enough no matter how you add it up. . . . Betty (Mrs. Bob) Guild very tricky in a knitted suit—her own work. . . . Stag parties we'd like to have lined up near-ly which the Telephone men held recently in the Winfred Russell home on Lowell street. . . . A suhwell American family. Daughter From East Inspires
Formal Dinner

Complimenting their daughter, Mrs. Harrison Lyon Chapin of Rochester, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. John W. Estes entertained last night at dinner in their home, 1303 Martha Lane.

Mrs. Chapin is here for a few weeks' visit with her parents, having joined them on their recent trip back to St. Louis, their former home, and returned to Santa Ana with them. She has a host of friends here to welcome her, for she is a frequent visitor in the home of her parents, coming to the coast at least once each year.

Thirty or more family friends comprised last night's dinner guests, enjoying the successive courses at prettily decorated tables set about the room. Serving was accomplished from the dining room and the adjoining patio which with its flowers and vines, made a charming spot.

A succession of games and contests provided after-dinner diversion, one of the most entertaining of which was a guessing of identities of countless magazine portraits from which names had been carefully removed. This contest included the feat of limerick writing about some one of the celebrities. Mrs. Warren Freeman and Dr. George A. Warner were judged winners. Mrs. Freeman's reward was a flower vase of graceful design, while Dr. Warner received a fine etching of George Washington.

THE RED CROSS DRIVE OPENS

Of all the qualities which man possesses, none is so sublime as the one called Generosity. Our Red Cross is the emblem of America's GENEROUS SPIRIT.

Red Cross was found on the battle fields of France; and just last year Red Cross was found among the debris of 35 floods, 45 major fires, 8 hurricanes, 3 shipwrecks, 32 tornadoes and 11 epidemics within the borders of United States. It has functioned on less than 1 per cent — 98 per cent donated service.

The Red Cross drive started this week. If the worker in your district misses you, pin a dollar bill to this editorial and mail to me. Your button and membership card will be mailed back to you immediately.

COME TO CHURCH

The Church is the meeting place for God and His People

A SERMONETTE "COME TO CHURCH CAMPAIGN"

By J. S. SORENSON, Pastor

REV. J. S. SORENSON

"The Function of the Church"

Text: "Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular."

—1 COR. 12:27.

Every believer in Christ who has been "born again" into the kingdom of God is a member of the body of Christ. To realize this fact is important and should help one to appreciate his opportunities of service in the work of the Lord.

As members of the body of Christ each one has a function to perform, for this is not a dead, static body; but a living organism. It is not just a machine where each part simply performs its function because it can do nothing else, but a living, pulsating interrelated organism where each member contributes toward the well-being of the whole and the whole to each member.

The head of this body is Christ Himself, for we read that "God hath put all things under his feet, and gave Him to be the head over all things to the church, which is His body, the fullness of Him that filleth all in all."

The life of this body is the Spirit of God. The Holy Spirit is the Spirit of Life who quickens the believer and inspires and vitalizes the whole body of Christ. The charge has been brought against the church that Christianity works as an opiate upon people. This charge may be true of much that is called Christianity; but it is certainly far from being true of the Christianity that Jesus brought. Who can read the work of Jesus and come to the conclusion that He advocated a life of self-satisfaction and ease, or who can study His teachings and come to those conclusions? The contrary is true. Jesus lived and advocated a busy life. From early morning till late at night we find Him going about doing good, and He exhorted His followers to work while it was day, and it was by giving and pouring out His life in service for others that Jesus began the work of the Kingdom of God.

But it was only a beginning, for soon He was condemned by wicked men and crucified. What then, shall the great work of building God's kingdom cease? The answer comes on the day of Pentecost. The Holy Spirit came on the waiting disciples, inspiring and empowering them to go out and continue the work which Jesus had begun. As people heard, they speak and saw wonders performed by them, they were convicted of sin and many were added unto the Lord.

The body of Christ does not function automatically. It has often failed in God's work, because of divisions and other hindering elements in the members of it. Complete yielding to God on the part of each member insures a healthy and normally functioning body.

Jesus compared the church and the kingdom to a small grain of mustard seed, which when it is grown becomes a large tree. From a small beginning the body of Christ has been growing until its members are innumerable and there is hardly a place in the world where its influence has not been felt.

It is then under the direction of Christ and the inspiration of the Holy Spirit that the church keeps actively engaged in the work of God's kingdom. As members of the body of Christ we need to keep filled with His Spirit and realize that the progress of God's work in this world depends on us being "workers together with Him."

WARNING!!! If you suffer self-persecution when you can't remember the name of a melody that drifts through your mind or a familiar face haunts you for lack of a name, then steer clear of this paralyzing pastime because the words you don't get will be thorns until the answer appears. But, if you insist—fill in the first blank with a one-letter word and the succeeding blanks with words using, in each case, the same letters with one addition until the last is a ten letter word.

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein

STAMP collectors may expect a rush of Spanish stamps, overprinted by the rebel forces as soon as they captured an important city. First came those of the island of Majorca. Now Seville has an overprinted set, and soon the overprints of other large centers may be expected. Some overprints are set in type, others are rubber-stamped, all along the same line, such as "Seville-Viva Espana-Julio 1936."

France has advanced its highest value in stamps from 10 francs to a new issue of 50 francs, which equals about $5.25 in United States money. This new high value is an airmail issue of the bank-note type, and is used mostly for registered airmail matter.

Good used copies of the all-blue 16-cent special delivery airmail stamps were bought recently in a New York auction at 17 cents a copy.

The Sultan of Zanzibar, Seyyed Sir Khalifa bin Harub, will commemorate the silver jubilee of his accession to the throne, Dec. 9, 1911, with a special jubilee issue of stamps.

It cost $8,000,000, and took 16 years to build Japan's new Diet building in Tokyo, and its completion is celebrated with a set of four commemorative stamps, in two designs. One pair shows a view of the new building, and the other pair pictures the entrance.

PLAY FEATURES CLUB MEETING

MIDWAY CITY, Nov. 14.—The approaching Thanksgiving season was the motive for the program presented by a group of young people from the Huntington Beach high school before the Midway City Woman's club, Thursday afternoon. A Thanksgiving play was presented by pupils of Miss Brubaker's dramatics class and a male quartet from the school presented two vocal numbers. Current events were discussed by Mr. Fitch of Santa Ana, and two piano solos were played by Miss Dorothy Barnes of Garden Grove. Mrs. Anne Van Steenberg read a Thanksgiving meditation.

A report on the recent County Federation convention held in Santa Ana was given by Mrs. William Frazier during the business session.

The second meeting for November has been cancelled due to the Thanksgiving holiday and, at the December 10 meeting, the only meeting in that month, a Christmas program will be presented with music under the direction of the club music chairman, Mrs. Lillian Jones.

Mrs. J. H. Pryor, chairman of the ways and means committee, will be in charge of the luncheon to be served for the Tri-County Garden club pilgrimage group scheduled for December with Mrs. J. A. Houlihan in charge of tables and decorations.

Mrs. Fred Basse and Mrs. Marcus Jungmann were hostesses at Thursday's social hour.

LAGUNA ARTIST IS GIVEN HIGH HONOR AT ART EXHIBITION

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 14.—The Laguna artist colony added another honor to its list this week when it was learned that Miss Turner Williams has received notice that her dry-point etching, "Boots and Sou'wester" has been accepted for the Fourth International Exhibition of Etching and Engraving at the Art Institute of Chicago.

The exhibition, for which etchings and engravings are sent from all over the world, will be held November 6 to January 11, and it is considered a great honor for an artist to be accepted.

Miss Williams, who studied at the Academy Julian in Paris, the Heymann Academy in Munich, and the National Academy in New York has been studying under Stark Davis in Laguna and gives much credit to him for his introducing her to the graphic arts. It is seldom that a woman makes such strides in dry-point etching and Miss Turner will undoubtedly receive many congratulations for her fine work since heretofore most dry-point etchings in famous exhibitions have been done by men.

It is hoped by artists in Laguna, interested in the work of this talented young newcomer, that her "Boots and Sou'wester" will be among those selected for the circuit exhibition of the art institute.

They are both well acquainted with conditions there and are expected to give a very interesting address. They are students in the Poursquare Bible college at present.

NOT EXPLAINED YET

The Literary Digest, in commenting on the errors in its poll, explained that the same procedure had been followed as in former years. Furthermore, the comment says that ballots reached every registered voter in Allentown, Pa., and other cities, every other registered voter in Scranton, Pa., and every third in Chicago, and yet the results from these towns were "as badly off as we were on the national total".

WHO HAS THE EXPLANATION?

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IN CALIFORNIA?

A news dispatch says that a young university teacher in Wisconsin was stopped from holding history classes as the result of an Armistice Day speech he gave, assailing Abraham Lincoln.

Under the tenure law in California one wonders how a teacher can be dismissed without going through all the red-tape and the political moves to prove a theory to be right or wrong. The address was before high school students in which the teacher charged that "Lincoln plunged the nation into civil war merely to save a tottering Republican party".

In California, if he were dismissed, it probably would have gone to the courts before the final authority would be given for his dismissal.

WHEN TO TALK

A friend of ours says that people must learn by suffering. We tell him that it is too cruel to take an attitude of that kind—to sit quietly by and let people needlessly suffer is not co-operation, not humanitarian and not good citizenship.

He replies by saying that to express one's opinions on political and economic problems, when said opinions are not wanted, not only does no good but, in reality, it only stimulates opposition and resentment and, as a result, there will be more suffering by the attempt to give counsel before it is wanted than there would be by keeping still and letting people suffer until they realized their predicament and their hopelessness and come, seeking counsel.

It, thus, resolves itself evidently into a question of when to speak and when not to speak. There is always a time for everything and to know the time is one of the fundamentals of accomplishment.

DEATH ENDS STIRRING SAGA OF MA STREETER

You may not recall the name of Emma Lockwood Streeter, who died in Chicago the other day at the age of 63, but she was one of those extremely salty individualists, rugged beyond the dreams of a Hoover, which the United States seems to have a genius for producing.

As Ma Streeter she played a leading role in as strange and entertaining a legend row as the last half century could provide. She sat in a houseboat and did battle for the topless towers of the Chicago Gold Coast, and if she was licked in every fight she at least made a scrap of it.

The fight was not of her beginning. It was started by her husband, long before she married or even heard of him—and the husband also was an individualist, even saltier and more rugged than she was.

Cap Streeter marched to the sea with Sherman in the Civil War and, on his return, bought and operated a small steamer on Lake Michigan. A storm drove the boat aground off the Chicago lake front in 1886; the captain made his home on the wreck and built a little breakwater around it.

Wind and waves did odd things. As years passed, the space between his boat and the shore was filled in with sea-tossed sand and became solid land. The captain laid claim to it by squatter's rights.

The land, he said, belonged to neither Chicago nor Illinois; it was "the District of Lake Michigan," and he owned it all.

There followed many years of fighting, gentee and otherwise. The police tried repeatedly to throw the captain out; he barricaded, armed himself, and resisted force with force.

In 1905 he married Ma Streeter and she helped him, proving a doughty fighter. When the captain was sent to prison for killing a man in one of the assaults on his dwelling, she carried on in his stead.

Superior forces finally triumphed, and the Streeters were dispossessed. The captain died in 1921, and Ma Streeter vowed that she would carry on the fight.

By now she was living in a dingy houseboat anchored in the Chicago river. She eked out a living by peddling aprons and what-not from door to door, and sued in court after court for title to the disputed land.

Now the years have made this land fantastically valuable. Some of the proudest buildings of Chicago's lake front had been built on it. Altogether, the property which she claimed was worth half a billion dollars—which gives you an idea of just how much chance she ever had of establishing her title to it.

But she kept on fighting. Court after court turned her down; court after court saw new petitions filed, and the grim old woman hung on, always losing, but never giving up.

Now the fabulous tale is finished. Ma Streeter is dead, and Chicago has probably heard the last about the District of Lake Michigan. But can you read the story without feeling a faint, illogical twinge of sympathy for this doughty lady who lived in a houseboat and tilted with a half-billion-dollar windmill?

WHO PAYS?

In a news dispatch, William Green of the American Federation of Labor is quoted as saying in an editorial in the American Federationist, that union members should "work steadily for amendments that will represent a true measure of social security." He says, "While the present law constitutes a great advance, the old-age benefit plan is a sort of compulsory savings program".

Green is finally awakening to the fact that the savings will come out of the workers' envelopes, whether it is paid directly or not. The press dispatch says that Green was one of the strongest defenders of the social security law during the recent election campaign when it was attacked by Republican leaders.

As a remedy for this, Green demands that the law be amended to tax wealth rather than wage earners.

Green evidently does not know (or will not admit it) that if we took all the earnings of everyone who had an income of over $5000 a year, it would not pay half of the present government expense. If a large additional expenditure is to be added, the additional tax necessarily would have to come from people of moderate means.

It is this belief, that the wealthy can supply comforts for all whether they work or not, that has always caused the downfall of all democracies.

A VERY HIGH HONOR TO CAL. TECH.

The awarding of the Nobel prize to a scientist, Dr. Carl David Anderson, of the California Institute of Technology is a great honor to the institution, inasmuch as this has been the third time members of the faculty have been so honored. No other institution has had more than one such honor.

It is a nice example of the wonderful service that even small colleges can accomplish for society when they are not controlled by politicians at public expense.

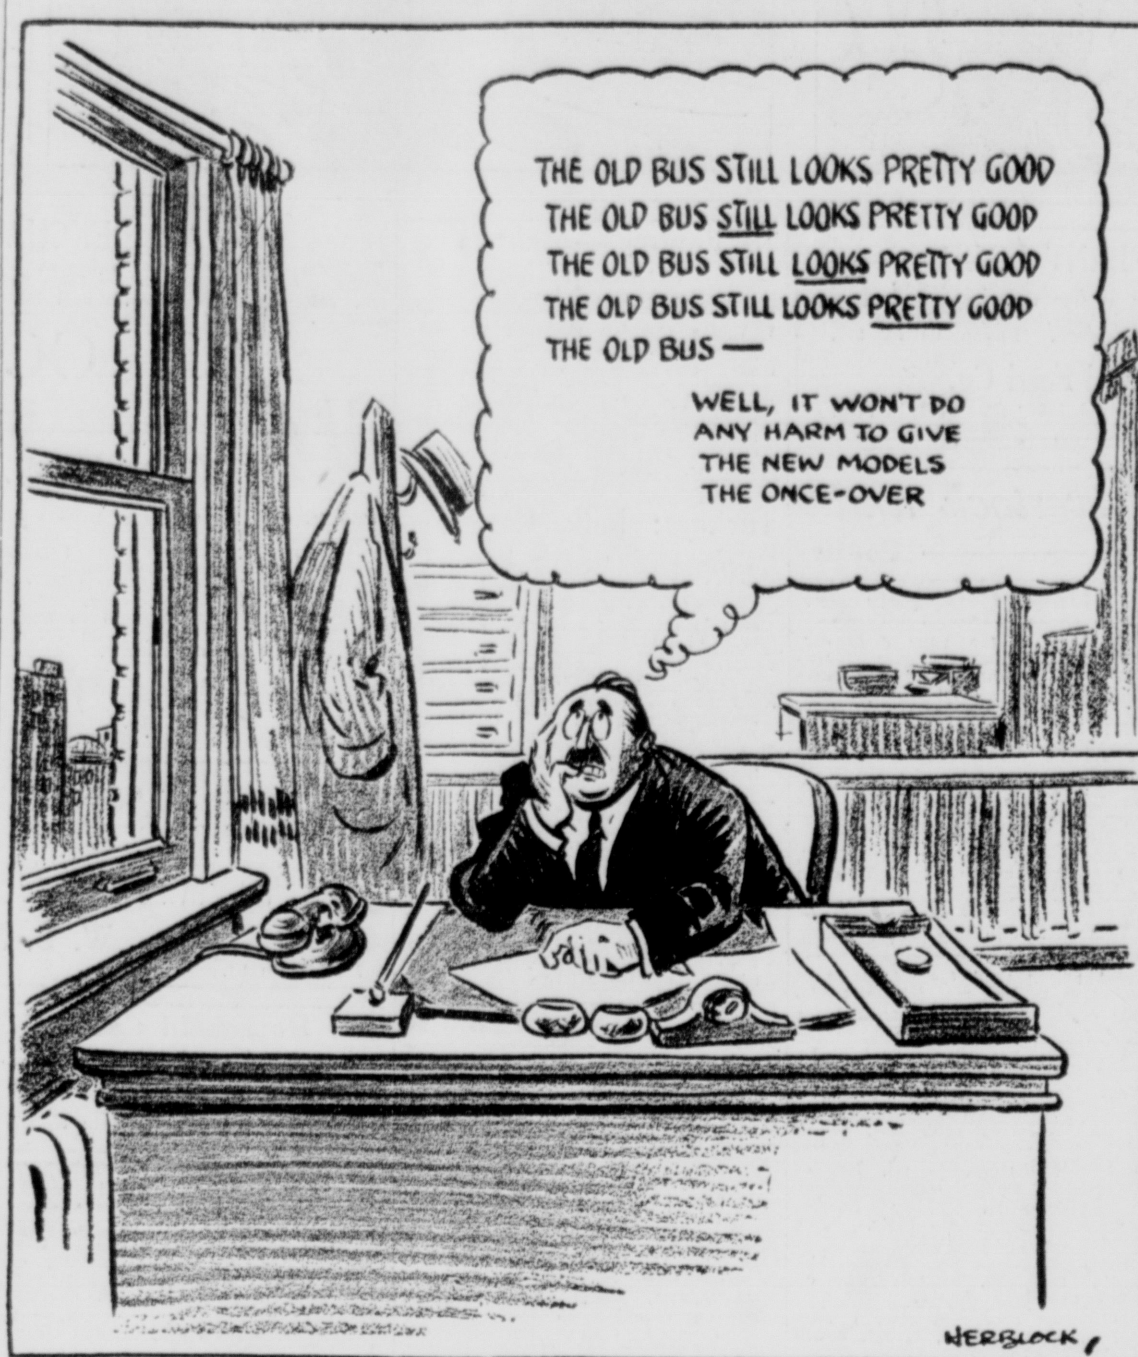

Private colleges can be free from political domination and allow genius to develop. It takes a genius to first recognize a genius. A private institution is interested in results, not in popularity contests as is necessary in state institutions.

Dr. Anderson is now only 31 years of age and evidently a man of the highest character, judging from the great interest he has in his work. When he was told that he would be obliged to go to Europe to receive the great prize, he did not know whether he could get away from his work long enough to receive the honor. Dr. Millikan immediately insisted on the doctor taking a leave of absence.

Dr. Anderson discovered the fourth known basic particle of which all matter is made. Prior to this time, there were only three particles known—the electron, the neutron and the proton. The new particle discovered by Dr. Anderson is the positron.

Science marches on!

Going! Going!—

Day By Day In Washington

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1936)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—As a master of public psychology, President Roosevelt has no equal in the annals of American history, and at no time has his skill been more deftly applied than in what he is doing in these after-election days.

Inspired by an overwhelming victory at the polls, stimulated by the approval given his policies, it would have been natural for the President to resume with dramatic fervor his program of reform and to begin interpreting the mandate of the election in concrete terms of new laws or amendments to old laws.

But, instead, Mr. Roosevelt decides on a vacation. To the queries of the newspaper correspondents, assembled with him three times now since the election, he answers modestly, unpretentiously, even vaguely, the questions about future plans and future legislation. No matter what the problem, he hasn't really begun to tackle it or someone else is studying it or some more information is being gathered as he has to wait till Congress convenes to decide—all this can hardly be the turn of mind of one who is deliberately planning a huge transformation in the customary way that things have been handled in the field of government.

Mr. Roosevelt acts in a way that indicates as plainly as if he had called for it that he would like a breathing spell himself—a rest—and that he wishes everybody else would do likewise so far as changing over the government or making legislative plans for his second administration.

All around him are friends who want to start right in pushing—they want the President to go further to the left or they want him "to consolidate the gains of liberalism" or else they want him to become an intense partisan of their respective causes. This means complications which Mr. Roosevelt is loath to stir up now, even if he were disposed to go along with the numerous enthusiasts who are at his side, ready to move forward to bigger and better NRA's and bigger and better AAA's as the case may be.

How can he go off on a boat cruise and get any mental relaxation, if, before he departs, he just sets off a bunch of controversial firecrackers that will keep the naval radio towers sparking with messages all the time he is gone? At the moment, the President has an unprecedented amount of support from the so-called "right," or conservative, side. Business men are talking of cooperation with a great deal more earnestness than at any time since the banking crisis of 1933. There is a universal spirit of eagerness to adjust viewpoints. The President is probably as keenly aware of this trend of mind in the business world as anybody else. On top of all these currents is a definite upswing in business. Newspaper headlines tell of bigger dividends, more wage increases, diminished relief rolls, and of bigger expenditures for plant expansion.

The mood of the nation, therefore, is one of recovery. It is as if the election had cleared the air and defined the future as a one of continued government spending and doubtless more regulation of business practices, but with the constitutional safeguards still present to prevent any material change in the attitude of government toward property rights. Again, Mr. Roosevelt's second administration, if it be termed "liberalism," merely means an effort to regulate the capitalist system to bring about a better standard of living for the low income groups and a better distribution of wealth and income.

Such a moderate, middle-of-the-road course probably will not satisfy the leaders of the radical elements which supported Mr. Roosevelt at the polls, and there will be plenty of controversy and clashing of viewpoints when January comes and the President reveals to the leaders inside and outside of Congress what further reforms he has to offer.

Possibly the cutting down of the budget expenses to produce a balance between income and outgo will afford the first opportunity for battle. Naturally, in any conflict on such points, Mr. Roosevelt can count on the support of many millions of the 17,000,000 who voted for Mr. Landon and of at least half of those who voted for him, assuming, of course, that at least a half were not affected by direct federal spending.

But why should Mr. Roosevelt become any more specific at this time, when tempers are not all together smoothed out and campaign fever, or perhaps it should be called victory passion, runs high among the many groups who feel they "won the war"? For this reason, the President is meditatively preparing for his cruise, preparing, indeed, to turn the thought of the country to large problems of international policy and moving away for a month at least from the agitation on how to remake the business structure or the agricultural fabric of the nation overnight just because 27,000,000 persons gave him the green light in an already complicated system of economic traffic.

Arthur J. McFadden is proudly displaying the ribbons won by his three Russian wolfhound pups at last week's dog show given in Los Angeles by the Ladies' Kennel Association of Southern California. The wolfhound division offered the keenest competition in the show, but McFadden's 7 1/2-month-old pups carried off the first ribbon in Pacific coast bred dogs, and second and third ribbons in the whole class. The pups represent a strain that has become famous for running down and killing coyotes on the San Joaquin ranch.

Digging into the side of a hill for a barn foundation near the old Pryor ranch house at Serra, three miles below San Juan Capistrano, Miguel Yorba unearthed skeletons from what apparently was an ancient Indian burial ground. Many metates were found near this spot a number of years ago, and even now John Landell and other Capistrano ranchers occasionally turn up equally ancient stone implements in their plowing operations. The skeletons were found at a depth of about six feet and their condition indicates that they had been buried untold years.

Thoughts On Modern Life

THE PEOPLE AND THEIR GOVERNMENT

Did the overwhelming vote of approval for the Roosevelt administration mean that the American people want, one reader asks me, a different form of government?

Are we to see during the next four years a deliberate and popularly approved effort, by constitutional amendment, to alter the American government in the direction, let us say, of the Italian corporative state?

I do not think so. I have never been among those who have thought that Mr. Roosevelt had in mind a recasting of American democracy in terms of a consciously thought-out new philosophy of government. I have consistently written against the superficial flingings of Mr. Roosevelt as being Communist or Fascist. He has done just what, at the outset, he said he would do. He has followed a cut-and-dry policy, tackling one problem after another with the program he thought might produce results.

The net effect has been, I think, to move in the direction of the corporative state, but it has been the net result of a medley of more or less unco-ordinated efforts.

Any sweeping proposal to recast the American government along Fascist corporate lines would not, I think, get to first base on a popular vote.

What is likely to happen, I think, is this: I have dealt with this before, but it is necessary to restate it here. The people generally realize that there are points at which new powers should be given the federal government so that it can deal effectively with some problems that once were local but now are national in scope and power. The people will approve such new powers by popular vote if they are given the opportunity. But, when the full meaning of the problem filters down to the millions, they will insist that, with the granting of these new powers, we strengthen instead of weaken the safeguards against the abuse of centralized power.

This is a phase of the problem that neither the New Dealers nor their Republican opponents have yet tackled. It is the real point at which self-government is involved. Copyright, 1936, McClure Newspaper Syn.

OUR CHILDREN

BY ANGELO PATRI

WHEN CHILDREN REFUSE TO EAT

"I cannot get my four-year-old boy to eat his meals. He refuses everything I offer him. I've tried letting him go hungry, but he would starve himself if I let him. I can't let him starve. I can't go on as things are for he is making me a nervous wreck. What can I do?"

First: Is this child normal? If he is dull, or feeble-minded, or sick he must have the best care a skilled physician can give him. No ordinary measures will do for him.

If he is pronounced fit in mind and body we can know that he has been trained in poor habits. He has learned to use his eating habits as a weapon against those who control him. He found he could make his family dance to his music any time just by refusing to eat his meals. He can enjoy himself by the hour and that without cost to him.

Mothers are so anxious about the health of their children that any lack of appetite arouses their fears. Children are quick to feel the fears of those about them, and to profit by them. Because eating is one of their earliest experiences, and the one that first arouses motherly interest, eating lends itself to this unfortunate situation most frequently.

Prevention is the best cure. Every mother should be on guard against the first intrusion of the idea that eating is a favor to her. Eating is a personal matter and helps her, not anyone else. If the mother can make herself free of the feeling of anxiety about the child's eating and assume, outwardly at least, the attitude of indifference, the difficulty is not likely to have the proportions of a problem. "Take it or leave it," is the best attitude.

When a child who is in good health refuses to accept his usual good-humored, eat your meal with apparent relish, no remarks either way, and serve him nothing until next meal. Then make no mention of the previous refusal. Ignore it. If the child fasts for hours, even for a day, it won't hurt him. Emotional fussing over his fasting will harm him far more. Just cook some.

thing everybody likes. Serve it without comment, without so much as an understanding glance, and he will eat it nine times out of ten. Only be sure that you make no sign of courting a victory. Don't arouse his pride. Make the whole affair as impersonal as possible and after it is over, ignore it.

Alling children should not be fed the usual menu, but a light diet. The doctor should be called in if there is any sign of sickness, a rise in temperature, a complaint of pain. Fasting will be an aid to a sick child when eating a good meal will hinder his recovery. But this is a situation for the physician.

Mentally defective children do not eat as other children eat. Their diet must be supervised by the specialist. Their daily program of health habits, school routine, sleep, rest, play remedial work—all must be carefully adjusted to the dull child's needs.

As for healthy, intelligent children, they will eat when they are hungry.

Sir:

In answer to your article WAGES AND PURCHASING POWER, it seems to me you have had that question answered many times in previous issues, in your Clearing House, so I don't think it necessary to go into a tirade of economics in order to answer, what seems to be a burning question. Perhaps you are of the same type of whom Robert Burns wrote, "Convince a Man Against His Will, He is of the Same Opinion Still." I think this can be answered in simple arithmetic, or better, simple reasoning. Everybody is familiar with Henry Ford's $5.00 a day policy and the astounding results of what was termed a wild venture. Did not that prove to the business world that increased wages increased purchasing power and also production? I think there is no better way to prove anything than by comparison. Maybe you are

TO in the way of virtue: your MOT-TO seems to be HOW MUCH CAN AN EMPLOYER GET IN THE WAY OF PRODUCTION AND PROFIT, FOR THE LEAST WAGES AND OUTLAY.

I might quote some Shakespeare at this point, but it probably would be considered unconstitutional. Did you ever try to see anything either SOCIALLY, ECONOMICALLY, or otherwise, through the other fellow's eyes? If so, don't you think that the poor man has a GOD GIVEN RIGHT to figure from his standpoint? Or are Ability, morality, peace, and prosperity to be figured in DOLLARS AND CENTS? I think the old order is entirely in reverse and may be we will all have to start using different mathematics in the near future.

Raise your sights and you may see a Higher Power working in a mysterious way HIS WONDERS to perform, thro' a Leader and Government that is equal to the situation.

THE PASSING PARADE

Editor Register: Just 18 years ago as the happy crowds cheered and whistles blew, a six-year-old lad asked if "just a little of the joy" wasn't because it was his birthday. Ten years later when he was a senior in S. A. High school his life was over because a careless driver failed to stop and listen at a R. R. crossing.

Watching the wrecks in the Safety First Parade on Armistice Day we thought surely all who witnessed it would drive carefully today, and yet it was the same mad rush, ignoring stops, cutting in and forgetting even common courtesy as the crowd went home. We watched Scouts and stival bands and militia march with happy earnest faces and wondered what liquor, the careless motorist and the war cloud will do to these sons and daughters. It rests with the parents to make the laws and obey them to protect these future citizens. May every adult who was present at that splendid parade do all he can to guard these splendid young people.
